House Okays Draft Bill, But Restricts President's Lottery Plan

By JOHN D. MORRIS
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The House passed a bill last night extending the draft for four years but restricting President Johnson's authority to draft college undergraduates and to set up a Selective Service lottery. The vote was 362 to 9.
Earlier the House rejected, 160 to 77, a proposal to limit the extension to two years. Provisions to limit the President's power to revise procedures under the Selective Service law, which expires June 30, included deferment of students satisfactorily pursuing a full-time college undergraduate course until they reached the age of 24, unless the President "finds that the needs of the armed forces require substantial restriction or termination" of such deferments.

Congress would reserve the right to veto the establishment of a lottery for the drafting of 19-year-olds, as planned by President Johnson. The veto could be exercised by adoption of a resolution that was not subject to presidential approval.
The final text of the extension bill will be worked out by a Senate-House conference committee, which will have the task of reconciling differences between Senate and House versions.
The Senate version, passed May 11, contained no major restrictive provisions. In its report on the measure, however, the Senate Armed Services Committee questioned the desirability of drafting college undergraduates and of drafting 19-year-olds by lot.

The President, in a message requesting a four-year extension of the Selective Service Act, which expires June 30, said he had not decided whether to abandon the present policy of deferring undergraduates. In view of conflicting views on the issue among members of presidential advisory groups, he invited Congress and the country to debate the question.
At the same time, he announced plans to establish what he called "a fair and impartial random system" for drafting eligible men before January of 1969. The projected lottery would be called FAIR.

It would be a key element of a new policy to draft 19-year-olds first and others in ascending order of their age.
Present policy is to take the oldest first, starting with 26-year-olds and working downward by date of birth.
The lottery would be used first to select 19-year-olds along with older men as their deferments expired.
With 2 million youths now reaching the age of 19 each year, the lottery plan is designed to provide an equitable method of choosing the 700,000 to one million likely to be needed by the armed forces in the foreseeable future.

WEATHER
The extended weather forecast for Saturday through Wednesday is as follows: Temperatures will be above normal with daily maximums mostly in the 70's and over night low readings mainly in the 50's. Warm weather over the weekend will continue through Memorial Day and to the end of the forecast period. Precipitation will amount to one-fifth of an inch or less, with some indication of showers Saturday and again on Wednesday. Sunrise today is at 5:21 a.m. and sunset is at 8:34 p.m.

PENNSYLVANIA
A judge in Pennsylvania has dismissed a suit brought by the family of Henry Clay Frick to suppress a historian's contemporary criticism of the late Pittsburgh "coke king." The historian implied that Frick, one of the 19th Century's most controversial coal and steel barons, had been a wage-cutting, union busting autocrat. Page A11.

THE NATION
President Johnson introduced his own plan for financing future presidential elections, one which differed sharply from a measure already approved by Congress but suspended for improvements. Johnson's program called upon Congress to approved a subsidy of presidential campaigns directly from the federal treasury, and also asked for a study of better ways to finance lower level elections. THE WORLD
As the situation in the Mideast continued to worsen, sources in Moscow indicated that the Soviet Union was unwilling to join the United States, Britain and France in any four-power action aimed at preventing an outbreak of war. Western diplomats suspected that Moscow has decided to "sit out" the present confrontation between Israel and her Arab neighbors. However, Soviet propaganda continues to blame Israel for stirring up "artificial" tensions. Page One.

A few hours after United Nations Secretary General U. Thant left Cairo after what was apparently an unsuccessful mission, an Arab spokesman said that Egyptian troops had fired upon Israeli soldiers across the border of the Gaza Strip. Page A2.

President Johnson made a brief trip to Canada to talk over the Mideast situation with Prime Minister Pearson, and also to visit Expo 67. The hastily arranged trip to Ottawa and Montreal was the President's third trip to Canada. Page One.

Former President Eisenhower called a brief news conference in his office on the campus of Gettysburg College in Pennsylvania. He expressed the opinion that it would be a "serious mistake" for any nation to play a lone hand in trying to resolve the crisis in the Middle East. Page A2.

SPORTS
Beaty Junior High School posted a double track win yesterday by downing St. James of Dunkirk and St. Peter and Paul of Jamestown in a Chadoquin League meet. The final score saw the locals with 88½ points to 25½ for St. James and 13 for St. Peter and Paul. Setting records for the Blue and Gold were Dan Reynolds and Dana Pusateri in the long jump and triple jump respectively. Page A9.

337 KILLED IN HEAVY FIGHTING

U.S. Casualty Figures Rise

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
SAIGON—Heavy fighting and deadly North Vietnamese shelling in and just south of the demilitarized zone raised American casualties to a new high last week, a spokesman for the United States command disclosed yesterday.
In the seven days ending Saturday, 337 Americans were killed, 2,282 wounded and 31 are missing.
The heavy losses brought U.S. casualties in Vietnam to 10,233 killed and 61,425 wounded, according to the command spokesman.
In addition, South Vietnamese forces suffered 241 killed and Korean and Australian forces lost 50. Communist losses were 2,464 killed in the seven-day period.
Meanwhile, ground fighting flared again around Conthien, two miles south of the demilitarized zone. In four contacts, four U.S. Marines were killed and 17 wounded while 43 North Vietnamese were killed.
Chichester's Yacht Races For England
PLYMOUTH, England (AP)—Sir Francis Chichester's yacht Gipsy Moth IV raced for home through long Atlantic swells last night, just two days away from Plymouth and the end of his 28,000-mile voyage around the world.
Chichester, looking fit and well, waved from his 53-foot yacht as two Royal Air Force Shackleton aircraft located the boat 385 miles from Plymouth. Squadron leader Archie Kinch, captain of one of the coastal command aircraft, dropped a bright red canister containing the message: "The Royal Air Force welcomes you, Sir Francis."
The yacht, with all four sails up, appeared to be making about seven knots. A knot is one sea mile, about 2,000 yards, per hour. At this rate Chichester, 65, would reach Plymouth at dawn Sunday.

War, 1812, the Mexican War and the Spanish-American War. There were 33,629 Americans killed in the three years of fighting in Korea.

Tidioute Man Wounded In War

Lance Corporal Marvin B. Edmiston, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Blair Edmiston, RD 1, Tidioute, was wounded May 19, 1967, while fighting with the 1st Marine Division in Vietnam according to a telegram received by his wife Sandy, on Wednesday of this week.
According to the telegram Corporal Edmiston was wounded in the knee, while trying to secure supplies on a beach area, in the vicinity of Quant Nam, in the Republic of Vietnam. According to Corporal Edmiston's wife, no further word has been received on her husband's condition. "The last I heard he had been hospitalized for five days," she said. Corporal Edmiston entered the service in July of 1965.

Local Kiwanians Go On Record In Favor of Port

The Warren Kiwanis Club went on record Wednesday as being vigorously opposed to any withdrawal by Warren County from its membership in the Bradford Regional Airport Authority, according to a report from Robert Frycklund, president.
"The Warren Kiwanis Club feels that the development of the present airport at Mt. Alton, Pa. into a regional airport is necessary for the development of the present and future economy of the Warren area," the report stated.
The board of directors of the club recommended to the membership that they adopt a resolution in favor of the development of the airport into a regional airport, and that Warren County give its support to this project.
The membership adopted the resolution, stating that the Warren Kiwanis Club approves the action of the Commissioners of Warren County in having Warren County as a member of the Bradford Regional Airport Authority.

Breaks Hip Playing Football

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (AP) — Edna Crawford was feeling fine in a hospital yesterday, the first time she had been hospitalized in her 81 years.
She said she was looking forward to getting up and about so she can play some more football with her grandnieces and nephews. That's what she was doing Wednesday when she fractured her hip.
"I've always liked all kinds of sports," she said in an interview at the Greene County Hospital, where her excellent physical condition was the talk of the ward.

Prefers to 'Go Alone' In Middle East Crisis

By PETER GROSE
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
MOSCOW — The Soviet Union is unwilling to join the United States, Britain and France in four-power action to prevent the outbreak of war in the Middle East, qualified sources said yesterday.
Soviet influence in the Arab world, these sources said, is being directed toward calming war tensions, but there is no indication that the Kremlin is ready to take any active diplomatic steps to resolve the crisis.
Western diplomats suspect the Kremlin has decided to "sit out" the present confrontation, in the diplomatic or military spheres. Their propaganda, however, continues to blame Israel for stirring up "artificial" tensions.
President de Gaulle of France first proposed a high-level four-power meeting Wednesday to deal with the threat of war between Israel and its Arab neighbors. This approach was endorsed by President Johnson and Prime Minister Wilson.
Moscow radio newscasts have made no mention of the French proposal or its acceptance in the other Western capitals.
Arguing against such a diplomatic maneuver, in the Soviet view, is the suggestion of big power interference in the affairs of smaller states, a theme that is now anathema to the foreign policy the Soviets wish to portray.
International action by the United Nations has apparently already been ruled out by the Kremlin. British officials confirmed that the Soviet foreign minister, Andrei A. Gromyko, was unresponsive when Foreign Secretary George Brown put this proposal to him and to Premier Alexei N. Kosygin in conversations Wednesday. Brown is on a three-day official visit to the Soviet Union.
The four-power device was a second line of approach adopted by the Western powers. President de Gaulle put forth the proposal publicly through a government spokesman after he had conferred with Israel's foreign minister, Abba Eban, who stopped in Paris on his way to the U.N. headquarters in New York.
There have been rapid consultations among all four capitals — Moscow, Washington, London and Paris — since the Middle East crisis flared close to the point of war last week.
"Everybody has been talking to everybody," Gromyko told newsmen in one relaxed moment.
These exchanges made clear that the Soviets feel apprehension about Middle East developments just as much as do the Western powers, but their ideas about a way out of the confrontation differ from those of the Western powers.
The Soviets are said to favor support for the Arab cause against Israel. They reject therefore the role of disinterested diplomatic observer, let alone mediator.
At the same time one official said Soviet leaders "have no interest in a conflagration" but they prefer to "go it alone" rather than act in public accord with the West.
The actual step the Russians have decided to take has yet to become clear.
The minister of war of the United Arab Republic, Shamseddin Badran, arrived in Moscow on a suddenly announced mission to confer with Soviet political as well as military leaders. He was accompanied by a 10-man delegation and refused to discuss his mission when questioned by reporters at Moscow's Sheremetyevo Airport.

LBJ Visits Expo 67, Meets With Pearson

By MAX FRANKEL
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
OTTAWA — President Johnson paid a quick visit to Canada to see the gay dome of the United States at Expo 67 and to discuss the Middle East and Vietnam with Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson over lunch.
It was a "brain picking session" officials said of the meeting of the two leaders. The officials indicated that the crisis in the Middle East was discussed in terms of possible next moves in case the United Nations cannot quickly reduce tensions. The discussion of Vietnam appeared to have been an exchange in which Pearson represented widespread Canadian interest in another bombing pause while Johnson presumably restated his strong doubts that it would lead toward peace.
The hurriedly arranged journey to Montreal and Ottawa was Johnson's third visit to Canada. He came, he said, because of his "very high regard" for Pearson and especially because of his intimate knowledge and experience in Middle Eastern affairs.
The Canadians, however, have had an equally strong interest in the chances of bringing peace to Vietnam, an interest that has led to considerable pressure upon the prime minister to use his influence with Washington to attempt to bring about negotiations.
In addition, the two leaders reported that they had also taken up several bilateral problems but they did not specify which ones. President Johnson said he still hoped to return to Canada for a more extended visit during his current, centennial year.
The President presumably outlined for the Canadian leader his view that if the United Nations cannot quickly become the Middle East that the United States favored some strong moves by major maritime nations, including Britain and Canada to arrange for open passage through the Gulf of Aqaba, which they regard as an international waterway and whose closing Israel has threatened to contest by force.
Pearson however said "no decisions" were reached at the meeting, presumably because neither the chances of security council action or the possibilities of a four-power conference are felt to have been exhausted.
Although the timing of the President's quick trip north was tied to the observance of United States day at Expo 67 White House officials throughout the journey went to some length to emphasize Johnson's greater interest in discussing diplomatic issues with Pearson, and particular the Middle East.
The Canadian leader won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1957 for his role in resolving the disputes that arose from the Suez War of 1956.

A command spokesman said the last unit of American Marines has now left the buffer zone after the allied sweep uncovered arms and ammunition dumps. Ten thousand civilians were moved from the zone, leaving it open to bombing and attack if used by the North Vietnamese.
The week's casualty figures included only three days of the week-long sweep of the militarized zone.
The previous casualty record was 274 killed in the week of May 6 when Marines fought bitterly for control of three peaks near Khesanh in the north-west corner of South Vietnam.

STRENGTH OF FORCES

Egyptian forces maintained a tight blockade on the Gulf of Aqaba Wednesday despite a reported U.S. warning it would use force if necessary to keep the passage open to international shipping and also despite Israel's announcement that the blockade of the Gulf amounted "to an armed attack." Arab Troops Fire on Israeli Soldiers Across Gaza Strip

By ERIC PACE
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
CAIRO — Arab troops fired Wednesday on Israeli soldiers across the Gaza Strip in Israel, it was announced here yesterday. The announcement came a few hours after Secretary General Thant left here abruptly for New York.
Before his departure, the United Nations secretary general was accused by President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic that his country would not commit aggression against Israel, authoritative Egyptian sources reported. However, there was no indication here that Thant's three-day visit brought any lessening of the U.A.R.'s anti-Israeli militancy or the danger of war between the two countries.
To forestall a conflict, it was learned on good authority yesterday, the United States has urged Israel not to attempt, for the time being, to defy the U.A.R.'s blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba.
Nonetheless, a skirmish occurred Wednesday between Israelis and troops of the Egyptian-backed Palestine Liberation Army near the border town of Deir el Balah on the Gaza Strip, Cairo authorities reported. Israel promptly denied this account.
It was the first border skirmish reported here since the present Arab-Israeli military confrontation began. Foreign diplomats here fear that just such a skirmish might swiftly flare into war since the U.A.R. has 80,000 soldiers massed on the Sinai Peninsula near Israel, while Israel has mobilized 40 per cent of her reserves and massed troops near the border as a counterpoise.
Reached by telephone, Ahmed Shukairy, the P.L.O.'s leader, said that his men—who now patrol the Gaza Strip's borders—had opened fire on Israeli soldiers who had approached the frontier.
The Israelis fled after returning the fire, Shukairy reported. He said his men suffered no casualties and no Israeli losses were known.
"It's a small incident, but I am proud of it," declared Shukairy, who is the principal leader of Arab refugees from Israel. "But I am hoping for major operations" he added. "Our plan is liberation—and anything which falls within liberation is within our plans."
The P.L.O. said the incident, involving a small but unspecified number of troops on both sides, took place at 10:30 Wednesday night.
Before explaining, he privately told foreign diplomats gathered at the Cairo Airport to see him off that his talks with Nasser and Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad had been "in some ways useful."
The authoritative Egyptian informants, who declined to be identified for publication, said Thant had been told by Nasser at a dinner meeting Wednesday night that the U.A.R. would not attack Israel except in reprisal for hostile Israeli acts.
Nasser presented the Egyptian government's view that Israeli threats to Syria had justified and provoked the Arab military build-up, the sources reported. Nasser, the sources said, told Thant that the U.A.R. was ready to cooperate with the United Nations but added that it would do nothing that would compromise its sovereignty.
Thant mentioned various ways that Middle East tensions might be lowered, the sources said, but they indicated that he and Nasser had not agreed on specific measures.
Thant discussed with Thant, among other things, the mixed Egyptian-Israeli Armistice Commission that suspended operations in 1956. Its peace-keeping role was taken over by the U.N. Emergency Force which at Nasser's request ceased its operations last week.

Former Coolie to Run For President in Vietnam

BY JONATHAN RANDAL
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
VUNG TAU, South Vietnam — Tran Van Huong, a former prisoner who once worked as a coolie rather than collaborate with the French colonial administration, announced yesterday his long-expected candidacy for the presidency of South Vietnam.
Huong, considered a major civilian candidate, said "even if my race is doomed to failure, I will make it a baroud d'honneur" (a French phrase meaning a futile but noble final gesture).
Interviewed in a villa placed at his disposal in this seaside city by the ruling generals who overthrew him in 1965, Huong rejected suggestions that he accept the vice presidential nomination with the leading military candidate, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.
"If I accepted the number two position it would be my political death," he said.
The 63-year-old candidate said he decided to run five days ago when he finally chose a running mate. He declined to identify the vice-presidential candidate until the formal filing date for candidacies on June 30, but indicated that the man was from the Mekong Delta, like himself.
Political sources have suggested that his running mate will be Mai Tho Truyen, a Buddhist layman who was allied with Thich Tri Quang in the Buddhist struggle against the late president Ngo Dinh Diem in 1963. Truyen has since split from the militant Buddhist movement still headed by Tri Quang.
By choosing Truyen, Huong would strengthen his hand with the Buddhists, who were largely responsible for undermining his premiership which lasted from Oct. 31, 1964 to Jan. 27, 1965.
The former professor of French, who has a reputation for stubborn honesty if not political skill, quoted President de Gaulle, Talleyrand and Jacques Benigne Bossuet, the French 17th Century prelate who was one of the great orators of French history.
Summing up his support, he said: "I have almost all the intellectuals, the cultivated people, and all the middle class, many peasants—all those who reflect and are interested in their personal safety."

Israel's Foreign Minister Seeks Assurances From U.S.

By JOHN W. FINNEY
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — Israel's foreign minister, Abba Eban, flew here yesterday to seek assurances that the United States would fulfill what he described as an American "commitment" to keep the Gulf of Aqaba open to international shipping.
Eban's arrival here contributed to the intense diplomatic activity that took President Johnson to Canada for part of the day to confer with Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson and found the British minister of state, George Thomson, extending his stay here for further talks with Secretary of State Dean Rusk.
In his conferences with State Department officials, however, the Israeli official found the administration deliberately vague about what it was prepared to do to lift an Egyptian blockade of the gulf.
In February, 1957, as Eban pointedly recalled upon his arrival here, the U.S. in an aide memoire to the Israeli government, took the position that the "gulf comprehends international waters and that no nation has the right to prevent free and innocent passage in the gulf and through the straits giving access thereto."
The Eisenhower administration pledged at that time that the U.S. was "prepared to exercise the right of free and innocent passage" through the gulf on behalf of American flag ships and "to join with others to secure general recognition of this right."
Talking to reporters upon his arrival, Eban took the position that this 1957 "policy statement" had been "confirmed in very lucid terms" by President Johnson. In a statement Tuesday evening on the Middle East crisis, Johnson said "the United States considers the gulf to be an international waterway and feels that a blockade of Israeli shipping is illegal and potentially disastrous to the cause of peace."
Eban arrived here after discussions in London with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and earlier in Paris with French President Charles de Gaulle.
Egyptian government leaders also adhered to their militant stand on the Aqaba Gulf in talks with Thant before the secretary general, saying he had finished his talks, flew to Rome by United Arab Airlines at 1 p.m.
Before explaining, he privately told foreign diplomats gathered at the Cairo Airport to see him off that his talks with Nasser and Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad had been "in some ways useful."

Ike Urges 'Caution' In Middle East Crisis

By FELIX BELAIR JR.
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said yesterday that "it would be a serious mistake" for any nation to play a lone hand in trying to resolve the confrontation between Israel and the Arab states of the Middle East.
At a brief news conference in his Gettysburg College office, the general noted that free and open passage for ships of all nations through the Gulf of Aqaba was a "key point" in United States acceptance of the settlement that ended the Israeli-Egyptian fighting in 1956. But he added: "I cannot recall that Egypt itself ever agreed to this."
The general's aides said the news conference was the former President's own idea and that it was called in response to requests from various news media for an interview on the Middle East crisis.
Eisenhower said that, in any case, keeping the peace between Israel and her Arab neighbors was primarily a responsibility of the United Nations. "Whether that agency is strong enough under its present organization and procedures to do much about it, I don't know," he added.
Asked whether he had been briefed by President Johnson or any other parties to the current dispute, the general said

Jamestown Still Looking For Dump Site

The city of Jamestown is still interested in refuge disposal sites according to an announcement made yesterday by Director of Public Works Joseph E. Veale.
The D.P.W. director said that a recent approval of city plans for the present dump and the adjoining area, by the Chautauque County Health Dept., have only removed the urgency for finding a new location, but emphasized the city's future needs eventually will require more land.
Veale said that persons who are interested in selling or leasing property to the city as a refuge disposal area, should contact his office.

Probe Minor Mishap

Warren Borough Police reported an accident Thursday afternoon, at the intersection of Union street, and Pennsylvania ave.
A car driven by Leonard LeRoy Brigger, 651 Derrick road, Bradford, was struck from behind with a car driven by Terry Caldwell, 18, 181 Davis street, Youngsville.
Police said Brigger was traveling east on Pennsylvania ave and stopped for traffic when the Caldwell car, which was following in the same direction, was unable to stop.
No one was injured and no serious damage was reported.

Student

Hoax Victim

MEADVILLE—Eddy Stewart of Meadville, a 15-year-old junior high school boy, has been the apparent victim of a hoax. He received notice recently he was to take a screen test for Walt Disney Studios in Hollywood, but the studio has no knowledge of the test. Four telephone calls and three telegrams last weekend from California led Lee Edward Stewart Jr. to believe his request for a screen test with the Disney studio was verified.

The boy's mother was told this week by the secretary of the casting director that no screen test was scheduled for Eddy and that the man who identified himself to her son was not an employee of the studios.

The secretary at first thought Mrs. Stewart was another woman who had made a similar inquiry, so at least one other family has been contacted by the prankster.

Mrs. Stewart said she talked to Vincent J. Piccilli, county district attorney, and that he is going to see what can be done to prosecute the person responsible.

Young Repubs Elect Officers

The re-organized Warren County Young Republican Club elected new officers at its first formal meeting held Wednesday night.

Those elected to lead the club in the coming year are Thomas E. Africa, chairman; Mrs. Robert Skolski, vice chairman; John Biekarc, treasurer; Mrs. Clair Tremblay, recording secretary; John Eberly, corresponding secretary. In addition to these officers, six directors will be elected to the club's executive committee, in the fall.

The Young Republicans are planning an intensive membership campaign during the summer months. Before it became inactive five years ago it had 110 members and played an active role in County Republican affairs.

In addition to another membership meeting in June, the group is planning a bus excursion to Chautauque in July to hear Governor George Romney of Michigan and a picnic outing to be held in August.

Boston Gets Snow!

A late season gale lashed much of New England yesterday and the U.S. Weather Bureau said there were reports of snow in Boston—the latest in the season on record.

The state climatologist reported snow mixed with rain at Boston and occupants of the John F. Kennedy Federal Building from the 10th floor up also reported some snow.

Occupants of upper level offices in the 52-story Prudential Tower also reported seeing snow mixed with rain, as did those in many other 10-story and higher buildings.

Before yesterday, the latest snow of the season reported at Boston came on May 11 in both 1907 and 1945.

YOUNGWOOD, Pa. (AP) — A car ran off Route 119 about one mile north of this Westmoreland County town yesterday and struck a Pennsylvania Turnpike overpass, killing a teen-ager girl and injuring another.

Pronounced dead at Westmoreland County Hospital was the driver, Julie T. Acito, 18, of Youngwood. A passenger, Donna Hauger, also 18, was hospitalized.

RedChinese Newspaper Warns British of 'Playing With Fire'

BY CHARLES MOHR

HONG KONG — An official Chinese Communist newspaper yesterday warned the British they were "playing with fire" in ignoring Chinese demands that Communists be allowed to carry on violent political agitation in the colony unharassed.

In Hong Kong itself, however, the local Communists have shown little strength since the British issued tough warnings on Monday that violence must stop. There have been no demonstrations since Monday. Sporadic Communist-inspired transport and other labor stoppages did little to harass the colony.

Loudspeakers on the Chinese Communist Bank of China skyscraper and in other Chinese Communist institutions were silent yesterday following a British warning that they faced possible prosecution for broadcasting seditious incitements to violence.

The British consul in the nearby Portuguese colony of Macao, Norman Lons, was withdrawn to Hong Kong yesterday for a review of whether the consulate and the office issuing travel permits to Hong Kong should be shut down. His two British assistants came with him.

Lons has been subjected to intense harassment by Communists in Macao since the Hong Kong crisis flared up on May 11 with industrial rioting. Wednesday he was forced to stand in the sun for seven hours while Maoist demonstrators chanted slogans and thrust petitions at him.

The Portuguese authorities in Macao in effect surrendered to Chinese Communist pressures last January and have since had their sovereignty subjected to an informal Communist veto power. Evidently for this reason, they have refused to provide any police protection to the British consulate or permit office.

Peking apparently hopes to impose the same restrictions on the British in Hong Kong. An article in the Peking newspaper Jenmin Jih Pao yesterday repeated a warning that Britain should accept demands to stop using police against leftist mobs, release all persons arrested, compensate injured and arrested leftists and apologize. The article was signed "commentator," which is believed to denote an important Peking official. The article said that the British "can only finish with their heads broken and bleeding."

The British have given no sign they intend to comply. In fact, their attitude has become increasingly firm.

'Shanks Mare' Sport

Here in Warren County we're trailing. But not trailing in the same manner as neighboring Potter County, Potter County Recreation, Inc., official tourist promotion agency for that area, has started to develop a 65-mile hiking trail to attract the enthusiasts of the mushrooming "Shanks Mare" sport.

Bill Fish Jr., Trail Committee chairman indicates that the trail starts from Route 6 near the Denton Hill State Park and travels in a southerly direction to Cross Fork on Kettle Creek. It then turns northward so that it eventually returns to the point of its beginning.

Points of interest along the trail will be Lyman Run State Park, Patterson Picnic Area, Cherry Springs State Park, Ole Bull State Park, and the Prouty Place Picnic Area. All of these places have water, toilets, and camping spaces.

In general, the Potter County trail covers the plateau country once famous for its large elk herds and nomadic professional hunters. In fact, Phil Tome (the man who established the first home at Corydon) did most of the hunting there that he described in his book "Thirty Years a Hunter."

The fact remains, though, that Warren County has much more to offer the hiker than Potter County or any of the counties that surround us. Our countryside is more scenic, our historical past more interesting, and the Kinzua Dam is something you don't see every day.

If, as Secretary Maurice Goddard says, hiking is the fastest growing sport in the nation, it's time we alert ourselves to the fact and get our feet in the puddle. Hiking trails can be built for far less money than almost any other recreational facility we might consider.

A path through the woods may lead to a substantial economic gain.

The Winner!

Are you a Winner? The Pennsylvania Bureau of Traffic Safety has asked this question of all motorists this Memorial Day.

Is "The Winner" the motorist who is first away from a red light, or the motorist who rides the left lane of the Turnpike passing everything in sight?

Is "The Winner" the youth who "leads the pack"?

This Memorial Day literally millions of cars will be driving on Pennsylvania highways. And there will be no "Winner" where speed and reckless driving is concerned. There will be only two winners this Memorial Day.

One will be on the Indianapolis Speedway where the scientific race driver will vie for honors in the famed 500 mile contest of speed.

The second will be the Memorial Day motorist who returns home safely with his family after a pleasant holiday.

You can be one of the Winners, but only if you let the speeding

Worth Your Weight in Gold?

Do you weigh 125 pounds and do you expect to earn a total of at least $68,800 over your working lifetime? If so, you are "worth your weight in gold."

Do you weigh 175 pounds and do you expect to earn a total of at least $89,300 in your remaining working years? Then, you too are worth your weight in gold. Or are you a 150-pounder with a lifetime earnings potential of $102,000?

Both of you also have hit the mythical mark.

Since you are a kid in grade school, you've probably heard the admiring comment "he's worth his weight in gold." The implication is that the individual is extremely valuable to whatever group is concerned—the football or debating team, the company, the charity organization, the community.

But inflation has slashed the real value (purchasing power) of gold while rising educational levels and technological progress have sharply increased the value of human beings. Thus in this era, if a friend tells you that you're worth your weight in gold, he actually may be belittling rather than praising you.

This is the substance of a highly technical, yet delightfully droll analysis in a recent issue of the University of Chicago's "Journal of Political Economy," by Dr. Harry G. Johnson, member of the faculties of Chicago and the London School of Economics.

Gold has been priced at $85 an ounce since the early 1930's. But this is a Troy ounce and not the avoirdupois ounce we use in weighing ourselves. It takes 14.58333 Troy ounces to make one pound avoirdupois; hence in terms of the measurement system we use for human weight, a pound of gold is worth $510.42. (This is the basis for the statistics with which I began this column.)

People's weight vary with their age, height and sex but the estimate is that the average American adult male weighs 168.5 pounds and the average American adult female weighs 139.1. To be worth their weight in gold, therefore, the male adult would have to be worth $86,000 and the female adult, $71,000.

But what is "worth?" In this context, it is not appropriate to use the definition of "net worth": the difference between your total assets and your total liabilities. Rather, because the comment usually refers to your value on the job, the appropriate yardstick is your earnings over your future working years.

To calculate where you stand, do this:

(1) Multiply your own weight by $510.42, the price of a pound avoirdupois of gold.

(2) Project your present annual earnings over the number of your future working years.

(3) Compare the results. If your earnings total exceeds your pound total, you're worth more than your weight in gold. If it doesn't, you probably weigh too much.

As a simple illustration, say you weigh 180 pounds—a worth of roughly $92,400 in gold. Say you earn $10,000 a year and expect to be earning this total for 10 more years—a worth of $100,000. You're in the magic class.

Doctor Johnson won't permit it to be this simple, because he reasons that you don't now have those future earnings and thus, you are not getting the interest you would be getting on those dollars if they were yours today.

To allow for this, he would multiply your $10,000 not by 10 but by a smaller 8.1—and he submits a table of "multipliers" to reduce your earnings "worth" over varying spans to more realistic totals.

But even if you cut your projected earnings worth by a substantial percentage, you probably still will find that you're worth more than your weight in gold. And if you're not, you on a diet.

More than 99 per cent of the air at sea level is composed of oxygen and nitrogen.

ANF is Where the People Are

The National Forests, like rainfall, are unevenly distributed throughout the United States. But so is the population which seeks, in ever increasing numbers, these public lands for their outdoor recreation.

Some 66 per cent of our population lives east of the Mississippi River, but only a little over 8 per cent of the National Forests lie in the East.

Last year the National Forests chalked up 151 million visitor days of recreation use. This amounted to 43 per cent of the recreation visits to all Federal lands.

It's an unpleasant fact of life that most of the public lands ARE where the people AREN'T. But the Allegheny National Forest is one Forest that has the distinction of being where the people ARE. It is within an easy day's drive of most of the heavy population centers of the East. This fact in itself can be a frightening thing to contemplate. What if a good share of these people took it into their heads to descend upon the Allegheny National Forest for their outdoor recreation?

Even if all land suitable for outdoor recreation in the eastern National Forests were developed for this purpose, the recreational demand in the years ahead would not be fully satisfied.

The National Forests are aptly called "America's Playgrounds" but they cannot, and should not, be expected to do the whole job of providing outdoor recreation.

Another million acres of Wilderness Areas are being proposed to supplement the 9½ million acres already in National Forest Wilderness. But most people in the East will never be able to visit a Wilderness Area. These Areas are located in remote mountainous country in the far West. The barriers of distance are too great for most Easterners to cope with.

If we are to put outdoor recreation where the people are, more and more emphasis will need to be placed upon recreational developments on private lands in rural areas. In this way, a proper "mix" of outdoor recreation can be provided so that families of all economic levels can satisfy their own particular needs whether it be a farm-type vacation, a wilderness experience, or a picnic close to home.

The 'Reverend's' Now In Federal Prison

The man hollered so loudly that the FBI heard him. His complaint was that his bank balance totalled $1. Rollo kept shrieking that he had more than $2,500 in his account. Somebody had goofed in simple arithmetic and it is seldom the bank. In fact if I recall the status of my account, my memory is sharp on every deposit and numb on all withdrawals.

Rollo was a leather goods salesman. His territory was in everything west of Chicago. When he returned from a 40-day trip, his bank statement showed one dollar, and that is when he stood on his little toes and hit high C while holding his breath.

He and the police visited the bank. The bank executives were calm. That's because they have the money. They can afford serenity. Rollo took a package of cancelled checks, and the first thing he noticed was that he was credited with a deposit of $10.92 which he had not made. This was confusing.

Riffling through the checks he found a withdrawal of $2,642.50. It was made out to cash. Rollo seldom made out checks to cash, because he enjoyed keeping a meticulous record of all expenditures, no matter how small. He studied the signature. After a lone moment

Records Confab With LBJ

WASHINGTON—The last time Sen. Tom Dodd was invited to the White House for a private tete-a-tete, President Johnson asked him to pass a message to Otto Otepka. Dodd dictated a private memo on the visit.

The Senator from Connecticut had eagerly accepted classified documents which Otepka had filched from State Department files. When the Department tried to discipline its errand employee, Dodd defended Otepka for raiding the files and informing on his superiors.

Cowed by Dodd, the State Department kept Otepka on the payroll. Even the President was timid about taking action against Otepka. Sen. Dodd, reporting on his White House visit, said in the memo:

"He (LBJ) then started to talk about Otepka. He said he wanted to get a message to Otepka through a third party that he wanted to straighten this matter out. He said, 'I want Otepka to step out of the Department and then we will do something good for him.'"

But Otepka, protected by Dodd, didn't accept the President's proposition. Dodd's power was such that the man who had slipped him documents out of security files is still drawing his regular salary.

The Senator howled a different tune, however, after damaging documents from his own files were turned over to this column. What was good for Otepka, Dodd angrily concluded, was not good for the employees who trifled with his files. The Senator hounded them in their new jobs and got most of them fired.

The President, after getting the message to Otepka off his chest, gave Dodd another message to deliver to Sen. Jim Eastland, D-Miss., recorded Dodd in the memo on the visit:

"The President thought it was significant that the Republicans are starting to say that he is soft on communism. He thought I should speak to Eastland and then he said to me, 'You know I am not soft on communism. I will show them who is soft.' I told him I understood and that I knew he knew that."

Otherwise the White House visit, which, of course, occurred before Dodd's improprieties hit the headlines, was occupied with dogs, politics and praise. Here are other excerpts from Dodd's memo:

"He (the President) said to me, 'I haven't seen the dogs yet.' He then proceeded to step out onto the porch and call the dogs. He finally coaxed them into the office and proceeded to pick up him by the ears. I mentioned the publicity associated with this, and he said that the dogs had been frightened by the photographers and that it did not hurt them. There was also a big white collie dog there, but he didn't pay any attention to this dog.

"The President then ordered some coffee and we talked. He spoke of his visit to Connecticut (his appearance on Oct. 26, 1963, at a Dodd testimonial). He said it was one of the most interesting days he had spent.

"He asked me about the political situation in Connecticut, and I told him what I told him what I thought of it. . . He then said, 'Let's talk about that judgeship.' I told him of the situation, and he said he agreed with me. He said, 'However, I don't think you have two good candidates there. I hear neither one can get approved by the bar.' He said, 'Get me a good Italian-American candidate or I will have to name Anderson.' (He subsequently named Judge Robert Anderson to the Court of Appeals.)

"I told him (LBJ) that he was looking pretty well, better than he looked when I last saw him. He said, 'Some people say I should take it easy. Don't tell anyone, but I sleep every afternoon.'"

"The President knew I had said something about Harry Truman on the floor of the Senate. He said that it was a good statement. He then remarked, 'You are going to get famous. You have nominated two men who have become Presidents.' He thought this was very unusual. I replied that perhaps it would be my claim to fame. . .

"Then the President said, 'We have got to go up to the Hill.' I said that I had my car outside, but he said, 'No, you come with me.'"

"We drove up to the Hill. He was very effusive and said I was a great friend and how everlastingly grateful he was and so on and we sort of exchanged compliments at this point.

"When we got to the Hill, there was a crowd. The President wondered how it was that people always knew he was coming. So we bade each other goodbye, and he said he would see me next week. He asked his chauffeur to take me to my office, but I told the chauffeur he had better not, in case the President needed his car in a hurry. He agreed with me."

Not long afterward, Tom Dodd came under fire for conduct unbecoming a Senator. He was never invited back to the White House.

Boysishly handsome Rep. Don Riegle, R-Mich., will go to almost any length to oblige a voter. An excited woman phoned him from Michigan the other day to ask his help in reaching her sister, who was vacationing on a sparsely inhabited desert island off the California coast. The island was so obscure that it had no phones, and no one knew its name.

With the help of the Coast Guard, Riegle not only located the island but had a cutter dispatched to fetch the girl to the nearest phone.

MASON DENISON

More Than Meets The Eye

Reaction As Scheduled—When House Democrats (in the minority by only three votes) earlier in the week introduced their resolution calling for an investigation of the Department of Mines and Mineral Industries, there was far more to the move than meets the eye at first glance.

In the first place, it wasn't what might be termed a routine investigation resolution designed to squeeze political gain from a Republican Administration—as oftentimes is the case when a probe request is made by the "opposition" party.

Democratic sponsors were genuinely determined to find an answer to the question of whether the bituminous mine backfill program was being carried out to the fullest degree or whether, as has been alleged, it has bogged down in administrative red tape, favoritism and special considerations.

Secondly, the backfill legislation in question, when enacted in 1965, was almost solely through the efforts of hard-driving conservationists through-out the state-lawmakers and non-lawmakers alike—in a determined move to clear up the strip mine mess that has plagued Pennsylvania. The point is, sportsmen of the Keystone State form a tremendous bloc, and are likely to side with frustrated Democratic lawmakers who had their inquiry proposal splatted by the controlling House Republican leadership.

Immediately following introduction of the resolution, Republican floor leader Lee A. Donaldson Jr., the Shafter Administration leader in the lower chamber—made known his opposition to the proposed legislative look-see on the grounds that no such investigation is needed and that "there is nothing to hide in the Department of Mines and Mineral Industries."

All of which means the resolution, if Mr. Donaldson's attitude persists, will die in GOP-controlled committee, but as prime sponsor of the resolution John F. Laudadio, Westmoreland County, commented: "If there is nothing to hide in the department, why not firmly establish this fact and once and for all knock down these charges that have been made?"

Representative Donaldson, who went into the House of Representatives with a bipartisan coalition backing of Republican and Democratic sportsmen will have to answer this question for sportsmen when he comes up for re-election next year!

Irritating Statistics—Bureaucrats on the state level for nearly the past four years have harped on the "amazing and stimulating" manner in which Pennsylvania has forged ahead on the economic front—outdoing itself even to the point of exceeding economic progress on the national level.

Unquestionably such an outlook is excellent image material for an administration riding top seat on Capitol Hill (as pointedly illustrated during the gubernatorial campaign last fall). For those prone to accept as gospel the rosy picture invariably painted by an administration (imagine politicians downgrading themselves or their efforts) the comment this week by the (politically-disinterested) president of the Pennsylvania Bankers Association should come as somewhat of a surprise.

Underscoring the point that Pennsylvania's economy is lagging behind that of the country as a whole, PBA President Charles H. Bracken, of Erie, said:

"As an example, manufacturing employment was up 4.2 per cent throughout the nation compared to a slender .6 per cent improvement for Pennsylvania."

An administration aide, asked for comment on the noteworthy picture painted by the non-governmental business organization opined:

"Well, really, it depends on what set of statistics you use."

How true!

A Collision Course

The President denies that he has put us on a collision course with Red China and the Soviet Union. In this he is relying upon his ability to guess correctly how far he can go in North Vietnam without bringing on Chinese intervention.

He feels he is able to judge just what targets he can hit before the big Communist powers decide to hit back. This is a kind of Russian roulette. The President believes that he can discriminate between those targets which he can hit with safety and those which he cannot hit with safety.

This is a deadly guessing game. Yet it has become the center of the Johnson strategy. It would be less giddy and nerve-racking if it were not for the fact that it was played once before, and played, moreover, by some of the same men who are playing it now. This was in the Korean war.

Some of the President's principal advisers are the same men who guessed wrong in the Korean war. They could not then believe that if Gen. Douglas MacArthur carried the war into North Korea and to the Yalu River the Chinese would intervene. The Indian ambassador in Washington passed along a message from the Indian ambassador in Peking warning the U.S. government that a movement to the Yalu would set off Chinese intervention.

The Indian ambassador's name was Panikar, and he was one of the ablest diplomats in the service. But the State Department dismissed his warnings, and the ever-witty bureaucrats called him "Panicky Panikar." Not long after that the U.S. Army suffered one of its worst military disasters.

It does not, of course, follow that the Korean experience will be repeated. But the fact of the matter is that it may be repeated. This is because President Johnson has allowed the issue of the Vietnam war to become a test of whether the United States is to continue to be a military power on the Asian mainland. The President is acting through a puppet regime in Saigon supported by troops and enormous sea and air power.

The most important recent development from the other side of the struggle has been the warning that the two Communist powers are resolved not to let us win the kind of military victory which President Johnson's new war aims call for.

No one can pretend to know at just what point in the escalation the Chinese and the Soviet Union will, in fact, intervene. But what we do know is that President Johnson has war aims in Asia that cannot be achieved against the offensive power of China and Russia. That is why he is on a collision course.

Soviet Crash-lands MIG in W. Germany

By PHILIP SHABECOFF

(c) N. Y. Times News Service
 BONN—A young Soviet Air Force lieutenant crash-landed his MIG-17 jet in West Germany yesterday.

An official of the United States Embassy in Bonn said last night that it was not yet clear whether he was trying to defect to the west.

He brought his plane down in a meadow south of Hochstadt, a small town on the Danube River northwest of Augsburg. The plane was damaged in the belly-landing but the pilot was unhurt.

He walked to the nearest road where a West German motorist picked him up and drove him to a West German army base in nearby Dillingen. There he indictated to officers of the 210th West German Signal Battalion that he was a "refugee."

"Where are the Americans?" was one of his first questions, according to the duty officer of the signal battalion who was interviewed by telephone.

In the afternoon the Russian, whose name was not given, was interviewed by West German intelligence agents. Last evening he was taken into custody by United States military officials and taken to Augsburg, the duty officer reported.

A shroud of secrecy was thrown over the crash by U.S. and West German officials. A spokesman for the U.S. Embassy in Bonn confirmed that a MIG-17 had landed in West Germany but said no details could be given until the affair had been investigated by military authorities. The American army meanwhile declared details of the crash to be "classified information," according to the German police in Dillingen.

The West German government press office and the Defense Ministry also confirmed the crash but said they could give no details.

An official of the Soviet Embassy near Bonn told a reporter that his telephone call was the first news he had about the crash and said he could make no comment.

Area Firemen Are Kept Busy

Several fire calls kept the boro and county fire departments busy for most of Thursday, with Warren Borough Fire Department answering two calls in the morning, and Clarendon, Glade Township and Pleasant Township answering calls in the afternoon.

Warren answered a call at 9:45 at the Segel Junk Yard, on South South street, where rubbish was being burned. No damage was reported.

A second call at 11:40 a.m. sent the borough department to lower Elm street, where a truck which was hauling discarded lumber from the First E.U.B. church, on Third street, which is being torn down, had caught fire. The driver apparently backed his vehicle too close to some rubbish which was being burned at the city lot, and the fire spread to the load on the truck. No damage to the truck was reported.

Clarendon, Glade Township and Pleasant Township answered calls at 2:45, 3:10, 3:15, respectively, when a brush fire was reported in the area of Zimmerman Hill. The three fire departments and the Dept. of Forests and Waters fought the blaze.

estimated $25,000 to $30,000 damage to a Main st. building. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Goodman and their four children fled the blazing building after fire broke out about 6:30 p.m. They fled down the front stairs but lost all their personal possessions.

Fire officials said they did not know how the blaze began but believed it started on or near the back steps. It flared up through the partition between the two halves of the building and was brought under control in about an hour.

Endangered for some time was the new $350,000 Ridgway Federal Savings & Loan Association building which opened for business on Monday. Firemen were able to keep flames from spreading and the new structure suffered no damage.

There was water damage in the adjacent Hour Glass Cleaners building and the Sons of Italy lodge, on the other side of the Goodman apartment building, suffered heavy water damage in social rooms while its meeting room was gutted by the fire.

Driver Killed

BEAVER FALLS, Pa. (AP)—A pickup truck and a car collided head-on on Route 68 yesterday, killing one man and injuring another.

The truck driver, Dale Mace, 23, of Rochester R.D., was killed. The driver of the car, John Guberish, 52, of Freedom R.D. 1 was hospitalized.

From Our Corner

By LENORE MCINTYRE
AT CHAUTAUQUA

Spring embarrassingly fell flat on her face after making an early grand entrance but now that the late snows have melted away and the mercury is discovering that there's another direction in which to move, . . . up, . . . a glance at the calendar tells us that Summer is scheduled to arrive in about twenty-six days, . . . providing she's on time.

The advent of the summer season brings thoughts of Chautauqua and a peek at the 1967 schedule evokes a peculiar feeling of excitement for Chautauqua-goers. The season this year extends from June 29 through August 27 and the opening night of the season will be highlighted by a joint recital by Metropolitan Opera singers Eleanor Steber and Blanche Thebom.

Dr. Evan Whallon, music director of the Columbus (Ohio) Symphony Orchestra, will be musical director of the Chautauqua Opera Association and the opera schedule includes "Madame Butterfly," Puccini, July 7 and 10; "The Marriage of Figaro," Mozart, performed by the Festival Opera Company of New York City, July 14 and 17; "The Crucible," Ward and Stammer, July 21 and 24; "Lucia de Lammermoor," Donizetti, July 28 and 31; "The Gondoliers," Gilbert and Sullivan, Aug. 4 and 7; "Faust," Verdi, Aug. 11 and 14; and Jerome Kern's "Showboat" on Aug. 18 and 21.

William Paterson, a member of the Chautauqua Repertory Theatre since 1948, will be resident director this year, with six productions scheduled. The first will be Noel Coward's "Bitter Sweet" on July 13 and 15. This will be followed by "Life with Father," Lindsay and Crouse, July 20 and 22; "Barefoot in the Park," Neil Simon, July 27 and 29; "The Miser," by Moliere, adapted by Miles Malleson, Aug. 3 and 5; "The Subject Was Roses," Frank D. Gilroy, Aug. 10 and 12; and Muriel Resnick's "Any Wednesday" on Aug. 17 and 19.

Special musical events of the summer will include the Salvation Army Staff Band of New York City, July 1; Kawahara Choir of Honolulu on July 7; the famed piano duo of Ferrante and Teicher, July 13; the world famous violinist, Yehudi Menuhin, and the Bath Festival Orchestra, July 20.

The Beers Family, folk-singing trio, will present a program in the amphitheater on July 24, and the popular band of Larry and Les Elgart will give a concert Aug. 11. Dorothy Coulter sings Aug. 24 and the final special musical event will be a concert by the Salt Lake Mormon Tabernacle Choir on Aug. 25.

Chautauqua has engaged Governor George Romney of Michigan for a major address in the amphitheater on Aug. 4 and the Independence Day speaker on July 4 will be Congressman Charles E. Goodell of New York's 38th Congressional District. Chautauqua is hopeful that the schedule of Ted Sorensen, former aide to President John F. Kennedy, will permit him to give an address or participate in a "Face the Press" forum on July 28.

The Chautauqua Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Walter Hendl, will present twenty-one concerts and visiting soloists will include Jose Iturbi and William Warfield. Also, Arthur Fiedler, noted conductor of the Boston Pops Orchestra, will be guest conductor on Aug. 12.

Morning lecturers will include Dr. John G. Stoessinger, director of political affairs division of the United Nations; Dr. Carl S. Winters and Dr. Edwin P. Booth, popular Chautauqua speakers; Mrs. Julia Montgomery Walsh of Ferris and Co., Washington, D.C.; Tom Wicker, chief of the New York Times bureau in Washington, D.C.; Miss Lisa Sergio, lecturer on international relations; John Ciardi, poetry editor of Saturday Review; Dr. Chaucer D. Leake, past president of American Institute for the Advancement of Science; and Dr. Charles H. Germany, author of several books on Japan.

The Chautauqua Student Orchestra will present a number of concerts, the Chautauqua Dance Company will present an "Evening of Ballet," an outstanding list of film lectures has been scheduled, including "America, the Beautiful" and "This Is My Country," by Warren's Rev. Herman Bielenberg.

The Department of Religion has engaged a group of outstanding chaplains, namely, Dr. John B. Coburn, Dr. Leslie Newman, Dr. Howard Thurman, Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, Dr. A. Newman, Dr. Howard Thurman, Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, Dr. John H. McCombe, Dr. Henry Young, Dr. Abraham K. Akaka, Dr. Colin W. Williams and Dr. Bryant M. Kirkland.

Add to these the Syracuse University courses, youth activities and high school courses, writer's workshop, adult education courses, activities of the Art Association and C.L.S.C., art and music courses, reading programs and others and you can see that the summer season holds in store an abundance of good things for Chautauqua-goers.

SCIENCE SKETCHES

APPLES may someday be commercially harvested from dwarf trees grown on trellises as row crops in Pennsylvania, say researchers at The Pennsylvania State University. Dwarf apple trees can easily be trained on wires and pruned into ground-level "tree walls," they report.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS FAIR WINNERS in Pittsburgh were Jim Nicholson, left, holding his third place white ribbon and the brass lures which made him a winner, and, right, Susan Barton, who won a first place blue ribbon for her entry, a child's upholstered walnut rocking chair.

Tidioute Students Win 1st and 3rd Awards

Two Industrial Arts students in the Tidioute school won awards at the recent Western Pennsylvania Industrial Arts Fair held at Kaufman's department store in Pittsburgh. Approximately 1500 students from thirty-two counties competed in the fair, which was the largest held to date. The entries were judged according to division and classification on Tuesday, May 9.

Susan Barton, a THS junior, won a blue ribbon first place award in the Open Division with her entry of a child's rocker. The project, which exhibited original design, was made of walnut and upholstered. This was Susan's first year of shop experience in Industrial Arts classes.

Jim Nicholson, an eighth grader in the Tidioute school, won a third place white ribbon award for his entry of fishing lures. His polished brass spoon and spinner were entered in the wrought non-ferrous metal classification of the metal division. An awards program was sponsored by supporting educators and donors May 13 at Kaufman's during which all place winners and their instructors were honored at a breakfast. First place winners received a gift certificate and second and third place winners an award certificate.

Most of the competitors were boys and Susan was one of less than 70 students to receive first place recognition and many of that number included students submitting a group entry.

Susan and Jim were accompanied to Pittsburgh by their instructor, Edward Steckler. Their projects are on display in the library at the Tidioute school.

Saturday Is Buddy Poppy Day

Buddy Poppy Day will be conducted in Tidioute Saturday, May 27, under the auspices of the VFW and its Ladies Auxiliary. Proceeds benefit disabled veterans.

A team of high school girls will canvass the town tomorrow soliciting your contributions to this worthy cause. At noon, the girls will be served lunch at the Vets building.

Canada's ethnic origin is roughly one-third British, one-third French and one-third of other heritage, including German, Ukrainian, Italian, Dutch, Scandinavian, Polish, native Indian and Eskimo, Asiatic and Russian.

Memorial Day Observance Set

Tidioute will observe Memorial Day in its customary manner, with a parade and ceremonies in the Tidioute Cemetery. Arrangements for the observance are made each year by the American Legion Post and Pequot-Younger Post 8803, VFW.

The parade will form at the Vets building between 9:30 a.m. and 10 a.m. Servicemen and women are urged to participate in uniform, if possible. The Tidioute school band will provide marching music and also accompany the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and "America" at the cemetery.

Fred Benner will head the color guard and Lee Copeland the firing squad. Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cubs and Brownies, majorettes and twirlers will add to the parade, which will move at 10 a.m.

The ceremonies at the cemetery will open with the invocation by the Rev. Nelson O. Horne, pastor of Tidioute United Presbyterian Church, who also will pronounce the benediction. Lincoln's Gettysburg Address will be recited by Garwood K. Lodge.

The Memorial Day speaker will be William F. Clinger Jr., Warren attorney, whose grandfather, father and uncles were prominent Tidioute area oil producers.

R. N. Summerton will place the memorial wreath at the foot of the monument to Tidioute's soldiers and sailors. Paul Thomas will call the Roll of Honor and George B. King will give the response. The salute to the dead will be given by the VFW firing squad and the occasion will conclude with taps by the bugler.

Tidioute School Menu

Trial Judge Shoots Down Defense in Levy's Trial

By HOMER BIGART
(c) N. Y. Times News Service
FORT JACKSON, S.C. — The first attempt in a United States military court to raise the war crimes doctrine of Nuremberg as a defense against the charge of willful disobedience was shot down yesterday.

The court's senior trial judge, Col. Earl V. Brown, ruled that the defense of Capt. Howard B. Levy had failed to support the charge that medical aid men of the Green Berets, an elite U.S. combat force were guilty of calculated atrocities in Vietnam.

Brown, presiding at an out-of-court hearing, said that while Levy, a 30-year-old dermatologist from Brooklyn, might have learned of "instances of need-less brutality" in Vietnam, his attorneys had failed to show that the medical training he was ordered to bestow on men of the Green Berets would be "prostituted" by use in crimes against humanity.

The American Civil Liberties Union, which is conducting the defense of Levy, must now rely on the argument that the captain's professional ethics and his adherence to the Hippocratic oath forbade his compliance with the order to train the Green Berets in the treatment of skin diseases.

Brown delivered a terse two-paragraph ruling. The dull, distant crump of mortar fire could be heard through the open windows as the colonel, a graying 49-year-old West Pointer from Oswego, N.Y., gave the ruling that every-one, including the defense, had expected.

All day Wednesday Charles Morgan Jr., the chief defense counsel, presented witnesses and written evidence to show that the special forces (Green Berets), a counterinsurgency outfit, were responsible for the mistreatment of prisoners, the mutilation of bodies, the assassination of Viet Cong political leaders and the forcible removal of civilians.

But the defense was unable to produce a live witness with first-hand knowledge of an atrocity committed by a Green Beret medic.

The case became unusual in the history of military justice when Brown ruled a week ago that a Nuremberg defense could be raised for refusing to obey an order that would result in a war crime or a crime against humanity, such as genocide. Levy, in refusing to teach the Green Berets, had called them "killers of peasants" and "murderers of women and children."

Brown ruled that the defense could present its war crimes evidence in an out-of-court hearing. He said that if Morgan could array "sufficient facts to support possible belief" that Green Beret medics were engaged in systematic atrocities, he would allow the evidence to be heard by the 10-man general court-martial that is sitting in judgment on Levy.

Yesterday he found the evidence insufficient.

LBJ Asks Congress to Pay for Costs in Presidential Drives

BY TOM WICKER
(c) N. Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — President Johnson urged Congress yesterday to pay for most of the costs of presidential campaigns directly from the Federal Treasury and to begin a study of better ways to finance lower level elections.

The proposed presidential campaign financing plan would differ sharply from the one sponsored by Sen. Russell Long D-La., which Congress approved last year, but suspended for improvements this year.

In a lengthy message to Congress, Johnson said that since "the costs of campaigning are skyrocketing" the heavy financial burdens imposed on parties and candidates had created "a potential for danger—the possibility that men of great wealth could achieve undue political influence through large contributions."

In addition to the financing plan, the President proposed the following:

—Restrictions on political contributions with no individual, family or organization to be permitted to give more than $5,000 to any candidate.

—Fuller disclosure of all contributions to and expenditures by any candidate for federal office, but the removal of "totally unrealistic and inadequate" ceilings on campaign expenditures.

—Stricter regulation of lobbying and contributions by federal contractors.

—An act to make citizens who move just before a presidential election eligible to vote for President in a new state if they establish residence there before Sept. 1.

The heart of the President's message, and the most sweeping changes he proposed had to do with financing presidential campaigns. His proposals will be referred. In the Senate, to the Finance Committee, of which Long is chairman.

That committee has a mandate from the full Senate to propose an elections reform bill as a replacement for the suspended long act, which would have permitted all payers of income tax to check off volunteer dollar contributions.

The plan proposed by Johnson would work this way: in each presidential election year Congress would appropriate a fund to pay for major elements of the campaign. There would be no formula to govern the size of this fund but the amount would be calculated in consultation with an advisory board to the controller-general, who would disburse and audit the money.

In his book, "Financing the 1964 Election," Herbert E. Alexander of the Citizens' Research Foundation of Princeton, N.J., reported that the two major parties' campaign costs at the national level totalled $29 million—$17.1 for the Republicans and $11.9 for the Democrats.

The federal fund would be divided evenly between the major parties—defined as those that had polled 25 per cent or more of the popular vote in the previous presidential election. A minor party—defined as one that polled between 10 and 25 per cent of the vote in the current election—could be reimbursed for its expenditures immediately after the election.

200 to Receive Degrees At Jamestown College

Two hundred candidates are scheduled to receive degrees, at the 17th annual commencement of Jamestown Community College to be held on June 12, 1967. Dr. Albert Baister, president of the local college announced yesterday that the commencement speaker will be the executive dean for two year colleges in the State University of N.Y., Dr. Sebastian V. Martorana.

Dr. Martorana is a graduate of the State University, Buffalo, N.Y. He received a master of arts degree as well as a Doctor of Philosophy degree from the University of Chicago.

He came to the State University in 1965 from the state education department staff, where he served as director of the Office of Planning in Higher Education. In 1964 he was appointed assistant commissioner for higher education planning.

Dr. Martorana has directed state-wide studies in higher education, in several states through assignments with the U.S. Office of Education State Government and Public and Private Educational institutions. He has assisted in the establishment of development of two year colleges in over a dozen states.

Dr. Baister also announced that the invocation for the commencement exercises will be given by Rev. Raymond E.

Risden, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Jamestown. The Rev. Kenneth F. Mullen, pastor of St. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, in Jamestown will give the benediction.

Steele-ing The Sports Scene

The Coach And The Man

If we had to select one word to describe Fred Bell, it would be the adjective used by Joe Giordano in his tribute to the former Dragon grid coach: DEDICATED.

Fred is dedicated to athletics, community, fair play, family, honesty and school, not necessarily in that order nor in equal amounts.

He came to Warren in 1952 and he had a tough act to follow. J.B. Leidig had just hung up his coaching togs after piloting Dragon football for 40 seasons. Leidig's policy in sports centered around playing the game according to the rules, winning was a byproduct of hard work and high principles applied before and during the contest.

He had helped to mold the character of countless men and women and in addition to being a successful football coach, was and is probably the most respected man in the community.

It must have been a tough job selecting someone to take his place, for the open position was flooded with applications, including several from area coaches who could boast of outstanding won-lost records.

Fred Bell had not set the scholastic grid world afire at Bellefont High School, but he was picked as Leidig's successor on the basis of his coaching and teaching ability and his personal reputation: he probably fit the mold poured by Leidig better than any other man.

Not that the job required a carbon copy of the coach who had been Warren football for nearly half a century, but it was certainly advantageous to hire a man who had the ability to carry on with the goals that had been set here.

The greatest compliment that could be paid any man would be to compare him to J.B. Leidig, and Warren handed that accolade to Fred Bell.

And he lived up to the promise.

As a football coach, he had one fault, he didn't win all his games. He once pointed out to us that, since someone had to win and someone had to lose, only half the teams are winners.

Fred Bell won. Bell-coached teams won more than their share.

We never made secret the fact that we liked and supported single-wing football here for reasons that would take up too much space here, space we need for more important matters.

But another of our favorite Bell philosophies goes something like this: if you have the horses, it doesn't matter what you run.

Bell's 1955 club was the finest high school football team we've ever seen. They had the horses, they could have won with any formation, except for one point: Don Mohny was the perfect single-wing tailback.

On the football field, Bell cannot tolerate a lackadaisical attitude, nor will he put up with a boy who breaks the rules, regardless of his ability and importance to the team.

And at Warren Area High School, you earned your letter. You played at least half of a minimum number of quarters during the season or you tried again next season. There were no gifts, even if you were a senior.

As a person, Bell also has faults, but they are so miniscule next to his many outstanding traits that they go unnoticed.

His honesty on the football field is only an extension of his personal convictions in life.

It has been our pleasure to play football under Fred Bell, work with him in the support of athletics in Warren and, most important to us, enjoy his friendship.

The men who guide our school system have another important decision to make. If they do half as well as the men did who selected J.B. Leidig's successor, this community and WAHS will be fortunate indeed.

New Leader in Haller's Walleye Conest

TIONESTA — The release of stored water in the Kinzua Dam hampered fishing in the Allegheny River slightly last week.

But as the river started to recede Robert Rush of Sharpsville RD 2, fishing near Tidioute, caught two prize walleyes on jigs.

Entered at Haller's fishing contest headquarters here in Rush's name was a 29½-inch walleye weighing 11½ pounds and another 22 inches long and weighing 5¼ pounds.

Rush took over a claim on the $50 prize in the walleye division from Frank Slack of Bulger and now also leads in the most walleyes-over-20-inches class with two. This additional prize will be worth $25 when the contest ends on Jan. 1, 1968.

For the trout contest where 11 fish have been entered, Fred Unen of Aliquippa registered a

GAME IN GERMANY CANCELLED

Super Bowl To Be Played in Orange Bowl

NEW YORK (AP) — Miami's Orange Bowl, now being remodeled to a capacity of 76,000 fans, will be the site of the next Super Bowl, Sunday, Jan. 14, between the champions of the National Football League and the American Football League.

Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the two major pro football leagues, said yesterday the owners thought it "might be helpful to move the game around and, of course, Miami is an AFL city."

The first game was held in an NFL city, Los Angeles, where 61,946 paid to see Green Bay knock off the Kansas City Chiefs 35-10. Rozelle said no decision had been made on sites for future years.

The Orange Bowl, home of the Miami Dolphins of the AFL, also will be host to the Playoff Bowl, Jan. 7, the Sunday game preceding the Super Bowl. In the Playoff Bowl game the two NFL second place teams meet. That game attracted 58,088 last January when Baltimore downed Philadelphia 20-14.

Under the terms of an agreement between the networks that televise regular season games in the two leagues, the coming Super Bowl will be carried exclusively by the Columbia Broadcasting System. The fee will be $2.5 million or $500 thousand more than the rights last January when CBS and the National Broadcasting Company shared the telecast.

NBC is to have the rights after the 1968 season and CBS after the 1969 season. New contracts will be negotiated in 1970 when the two leagues are supposed to complete their merger. NFL games are carried on CBS, AFL on NBC.

Rozelle said no decision had been made on the player pool for the second Super Bowl. In the Los Angeles game, each member of the winning Packers received a guaranteed $15,000 and each of the losing Chiefs $7,500. Top ticket in Los Angeles was $12. No scale has been adopted for Miami.

Asked if the scheduling of two pro games in the Orange Bowl on successive Sundays might not hurt the gate, Rozelle said he thought there would be little or no effect on the Playoff Bowl.

"We are naming the site of the game so much earlier than we did last year that it is possible all tickets for the world championship game might be sold out by Fall," said Rozelle.

The commissioner said Los Angeles officials had sent a resolution urging the return of the game for the second year. He said New Orleans, Houston and Los Angeles all were considered before Miami was picked.

Rozelle revealed that Dave Lupton, coordinator of a proposed Stars and Stripes All-Star football game to have been played at Frankfurt, West Germany, Sunday, June 25, had notified the league the game had been canceled because of problems over travel arrangements.

Lupton, a New York business man, issued a statement noting the cancellation for this year but said the game was rescheduled for 1968. He said the participating college coaches involved suggested the action because the Department of Defense had been unable to guarantee air transportation for the 52 players.

The Frankfurt game, a contest between two teams of college all-stars, would have been the third game of that type before the pro season. The All-America game at Atlanta is to be played July 8 and the College All-Star game at Chicago between the collegians and the Green Bay Packers is set for

Aug. 4. "Some of our owners had expressed concern about a third game," said Rozelle. "But now there is no need for any action. We had told those people that we could not sanction anything until our meetings."

The owners, still working on the many details involved in a report from a management consultant firm on the best ways to carry out the details of the merger, said they hoped to finish their business by today. The 16 player representatives and their lawyer, Creighton Miller, are due to meet with the 16 NFL owners and Rozelle Friday morning.

The players held a news conference yesterday to announce plans for a $100 a plate dinner for the Better Boys Foundation, in Chicago, July 9 at which awards to outstanding players will be made. Miller said the players will ask NFL owners for an all-star game between the AFL and NFL, a game which television contracts probably will rule out for the present.

Asked to explain a recent meeting of professional athletes including football, baseball, basketball and hockey players, Miller said it was purely an exploratory meeting.

"Pro football, specifically the NFL, has not entered into any agreement of any kind," he said. "We have no commitments. The purpose was exploratory to see if athletes had common grounds in relation to any legislation that might be proposed."

Four Perfect Rounds Fired in Trap Loop

Four perfect rounds were fired Wednesday night in the Warren County Trap League.

Three of the perfect rounds were fired by members of the Brokenstraw team. They were Chuck Jones, Bill Saunders and John Gustafson. The team finished with a score of 122 out of a possible 125. Other members of the team shot 24, George Johnson and 23, Dick Iseman.

Ray Laufenberger of Pine Grove had the other 25 right.

The match between Pine Creek and Spring Creek had not been reported to the league secretary.

Results of the night's action are as follows.

Paul Goldsmith Qualifies for World 600 Race

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Paul Goldsmith solved multiple mechanical problems yesterday and qualified his 1967 Plymouth in 11th starting position for Sunday's 130,280 World 600 stock car race.

Goldsmith, stymied two days because his car wouldn't handle properly on Charlotte Motor Speedway's 24-degree banked turns, posted the fastest four-lap speed of any of the day's 10 qualifiers.

His mark of 151,080 miles per hour for the 1.5-mile banked oval was more than three miles an hour short of Cale Yarborough's 154,384 m.p.h. pole speed of Wednesday.

Another 10 will be added today, with the last 14 to come from time trials and a qualifying race tomorrow.

St. Louis Files Suit To Keep Hudson in NBA

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — The St. Louis Hawks of the National Basketball Association said yesterday they will file suits in Federal Court at Minneapolis, Minn., to prevent Hawks player Lou Hudson from playing with the Minnesota Muskies of the rival American Basketball Association.

A Hawks sportsman said the suit will seek $3 million damages.

Hudson, the Hawks' star rookie last season, announced last Thursday he had signed a three-year contract with the Muskies. He is still technically under contract to the Hawks.

Hawks attorney Michael Abuchon said he will file two suits today. One seeks to enjoin the ABA, commissioner, George Mikan, and the Muskies from using Hudson's services. The other seeks to bar Hudson from playing with the Muskies and "further breaching his existing contract with the Hawks."

Hudson's one-year contract with the Hawks expires Sept. 30. The former University of Minnesota cage star wired Hawks owner Ben Kerner last Thursday he would not return to the Hawks line-up and would sign with the Minneapolis team.

"I do not wish you to take this as a reflection against you, the Hawks or the fans of St. Louis, but I have been offered a contract which is extremely lucrative and one that I could not turn down," Hudson said.

The suit to be filed against the ABA, its members and Mikan charges the defendants with "conspiring and inducing player Hudson to breach his contract with the Hawks."

Hudson was the St. Louis team's leading scorer last season. He averaged 18.4 points per game during the regular season and 22.6 in nine playoff games.

Hudson was the Hawks' No. 1 draft choice in 1966 on the strength of his bright collegiate career. The 6-foot-5 Hudson averaged 23.3 points per game in his junior year at Minnesota.

A broken wrist hampered Hudson in his senior year, but he managed 19.8 tallies per game while wearing a cast.

Kerner labeled Hudson on his signing last year as a "super star in the making."

The NBA's player contracts have a reserve clause similar to the ones used in pro baseball. Once a player is signed by a club he is bound to that club unless he is traded or released. A club must send each player a contract before Sept. 30 and he is bound whether he signs or not.

Local Golf Roundup

Myrl Lawson Has 87 at Conewango

Myrl Lawson fired the low gross of the day, an 87, to lead the field in the Conewango Valley Country Club ladies weekly golf tournament played Tuesday.

Low gross in the first division was recorded by Helen Culbertson. Second division winner was Doris Hamilton. There was no tournament in the third division but Patty Lundahl and Mary Ellen Lutz posted wins in the fourth and fifth divisions.

The fifth division is only a nine-hole event while the other four play 18 holes.

Myrl Lawson and Helen Culbertson fired the low net scores in the first division with scores of 78 and 81 respectively. Phil Davis won the second division with a score of 86. There was a two-way tie for second in that division between Doris Hamilton and Mary Johnson, both with 88. An 82 by Sally Gannoe won the third division. Following her was Jeanne Marsh with a 92.

Helen Werner's 86 was good enough to win the fourth division while Jen Lester was second with a 90. Eleanor Thompson posted a 92 on the nine-hole fifth division. Joyce Christenson fired the same total to gain a tie for the top spot.

There will not be a tournament next week because of Memorial day.

Flag Day Tourney At Jackson Valley

Entries are coming in fast for the first big tourney of the year at Jackson Valley slated for next Tuesday. A flag day event is planned.

Reservations for play can still be made by calling club pro Les Rettberg, 489-7803, before 6 p.m. today.

The tourney will be played over 18 holes for the men and nine for the ladies. The tourney will be run on the Callaway handicap system.

Tee off time for the men will be 10 a.m. and the ladies will start at 1 p.m.

Rettberg will assign team times. Golfers can call him on Sunday between 1 and 3 p.m. to find out their starting time.

Prizes and a buffet dinner will follow the golf beginning at 6 p.m.

Kickers Winners Listed at JVCC

Results of the "kickers" tournament of the Jackson Valley stag day tournament were announced yesterday.

The event was played over nine holes. The winners were as follows.

Win net 38 scores were Jim Hedman, Bill Usher, Pat Harnett, Harry Tourtelott and Joe Scallie. Second with net scores of 36 were Gary Swanson, Jap Lynch, Leo Salerno, Howard Goodard, Quackenbush and Albert Zingone.

Net par was shot by Bruce Jones, Bob Johnson and Nick Tomassoni.

Another open stag day is planned for next Wednesday.

Isabel Vescio Fires 48

Barb Graham, Joyce Miller and Versal Munch won the tournament of the day in Tuesday's Blueberry Hill Ladies golf tournament.

Mrs. Graham won the "Most's" tourney in the first flight with four 5's. Mrs. Miller had five 7's in the second flight and Mrs. Munch had three 7's in the third flight.

Low gross for the day was fired by Isabel Vescio with a 48. Jean Boettcher had low gross in the first flight with a 57. Carol Duell had the low net, 42.

In the second flight Beth Werner had the low gross, a 63. Dot Valentine's 43 was the low net.

Mary Chimenti won the low gross in the third flight with a 69. Madelyn LaRue had the low net with a 38.

CINCINNATI IN THE AFL

Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the joint pro football leagues, holds a press conference in New York to announce that the tenth franchise in the American Football League would be granted to Cincinnati. Rozelle said that the owner of the franchise would be announced at a later date. Yesterday it was disclosed that the 1968 Super Bowl Football game would be played in Miami at the Orange Bowl.

RULE, ZARLEY FIRE 69

Pair Tied in Oklahoma City Open

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Jack Rule Jr., who hasn't won a professional tour tournament since winning here in 1965, and Kermit Zarley, who has never won a tour event, shared the first-round lead of the $66,000 Oklahoma City Open yesterday with three-under-par 69s.

Rule and Zarley were one stroke better than Gary Player, Miller Barber and unknown Larry Ziegler. Five golfers, including Colonial winner Dave Stockton, were bunched two strokes off the lead at 71.

Hot weather and high winds kept the bulk of the field of 144 golfers above par.

Rule, a former croquet-style putter, used conventional putting and superb play to carve a four-under 32 on the back nine. He had five birdies and a bogey on the last nine holes.

Zarley, whose best showings have been second-place ties in this year's Dallas Open and the Buick and Doral opens last year, missed a three-foot par putt on 18 that would have given him the lead.

Ziegler, who has won only $450 in 15 tour tournaments this year, was so elated over his round that he split his trousers leaping in exultation over a birdie putt.

It was Player's first tournament round since the Masters early in April. He was two under on his first nine and played the backside in even par.

Others in at 71 were Bob Charles, Jim Colbert, Bob McCallister, Babe Hickey, Wayne Yates, and Bob Verwey.

At par 72 were Bob Rosburg, Don Massengale, Bo Wininger, Harold Henning, Buster Cupit, Howell Fraser, Bob Johnson, Labron Harris Jr., Jay Dolan and Rex Baxter Jr.

Stateline to Host Races Tomorrow, Monday Nights

BUSTI, N.Y. — Somebody's going to put a new leg on the Hyle Russell Memorial Trophy, symbol of victory in the 50-lap late model racing feature scheduled for next Monday at Stateline Speedway.

Both former winners — Ed Kisko of Kane, Pa., and Chuck Piazza of Jamestown, N.Y. — are off the racing circuit for this year at least. But there'll be a field of 30 to 35 late model drivers bidding for honors in this race which is run in honor of Russell, a most popular driver who died of natural causes—in his late 30's three years ago.

The Russell Memorial headlines one of two programs at the Busti, N.Y., track this weekend. There'll be the regular run of races tomorrow night, with 11 events and 25-lap features for both sportsman and late model drivers.

Such veterans as Bob Schnars, Squirt Johns and Ronnie Blackmer showed early form in last Saturday's Stateline openers, running 1-2-3 in the late model feature. Johns and Blackmer, however, had problems the following night at Stateline, and may not have all the "bugs" ironed out as yet.

This should be the weekend to accomplish that end, with some $5,000 in prize money—plus bonuses—to be distributed at the Busti track alone. Starting time is 8:30 both nights at Stateline, and 8 p.m. at Eriez.

Tigers Wallop Red Sox, Trail White Sox by One

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Detroit Tigers moved to within one game of the idle Chicago White Sox, the American League baseball leaders, last night by trouncing Boston 9-3. Only four other games were played. Kansas City beat Minnesota 3-2 and Washington edged Cleveland 2-1, also in the American League. In the National, St. Louis blanked Atlanta 5-0 while the Chicago Cubs defeated Cincinnati 5-4 in the only afternoon game. Jim Northrup drove in five runs, four with his second grand slam homer of the season, and Earl Wilson pitched an eight-hitter for the Tigers. Dick McAuliffe of Detroit and Mike Ryan of Boston had solo homers. Bert Campaneris scampered home from second with the winning run on Jim Gosper's infield hit for Kansas City in the seventh inning. Jim King's two-out pinch single scored Ken Harrelson with the winning run in the ninth inning for Washington. Leon Wagner homered for the Indians' lone tally. Rookie Dick Hughes hurled a two-hitter while Lou Brock and Curt Flood homered for St. Louis. Flood's was a three-run shot in the fifth inning. Ron Santo was the Cubs' star.

WAHS Nine Trips 'Dogs

MEADVILLE—Barry Dietsch belted a home run and a double and drove in four runs to pace the Warren Dragons to a 5-4 win over the Meadville Bulldogs in a game played here yesterday.

Dietsch homered in the second following a walk to winning pitcher Corky Greenwood and a double down the right field line by Jeff Marti.

In the sixth Roy Swanson tripled and scored on a single by Andrews. Dietsch belted his double to drive home Andrews. Dietsch was put out at third trying to stretch the hit into a triple.

Meadville scored a run in the second on a single, an error and a fielders choice. They got two more in the third to tie the game. The Bulldogs put a scare into the Dragons in the last of the sixth when Bill Chisholm led off with a triple and scored on an infield out. Greenwood retired the side without any further trouble.

The Dragons are now 4-3. They will wrap up their season on Saturday by hosting Girard in a double header beginning at 1 p.m. at War Memorial Field. Swanson and Doug Sorensen will work on the mound for the Blue and Gold.

TRY TO COOL HIM OFF

Opposing pitchers have tried everything to cool off the hot-hitting Al Kaline of the Detroit Tigers. Jim Lonborg of the Boston Red Sox found that he wouldn't have to face the Tiger star if he hit him with a pitch. The wild throw was undoubtedly intentional. Boston catcher Mike Ryan looks on. The ball hit Kaline in the shoulder. He did continue in the game which the Red Sox won 1-0.

Beaty Posts Double Win, 2 New Records

Beaty Junior High School posted a pair of wins yesterday in Chadakoin League action at Beaty Field with wins of St. James and St. Peter and Paul.

Beaty had 88½ points to 25½ for St. James of Dunkirk and 13 for St. Peter and Paul of Jamestown.

Dan Reynolds and Dana Pusateri set new records for the Blue and Gold thinculds. Reynolds cracked the mark in the long jump with a leap of 18' 10". He beat Pusateri by two inches. The 18'8" by Pusateri would have also broken the old standard that he used to hold.

In the triple jump Pusateri lunged 38½ with Reynolds in second place. Mark Krumm finished third in both events for the Dragons to add a couple more points to their total.

Japanese Return to Iwo Jima

By EUGENE LEVIN
IWO JIMA (AP) — It was a brief visit home, his first in 24 years, and Shigeru Kikuchi vowed to his ancestors that one day he would return for good.

The Tokyo teacher and nine other exiled residents stood before a portable altar they had carried from Tokyo. A Buddhist priest tapped two pieces of wood together as he chanted prayers.

The echo sounded through the undergrowth of this island, where American and Japanese guns sounded with the fury of one of the bloodiest battles of World War II.

Kikuchi had not seen Iwo Jima since 1943, when he was 17. He was back, with U.S. permission, on a five-hour visit that reflected one of the irritants in American-Japanese relations. Once some 7,000 persons lived on Iwo Jima and the other Bonin Islands. In the war, the Tokyo government evacuated civilians to the Japanese mainland. When peace came, the United States retained administrative control of the islands, but recognized them as Japanese territory to be returned when the international situation eased. After many requests, the United States agreed in 1965 to let a group of former residents worship at their ancestral cemetery. That visit was a disappointment. Although only five miles long and two across, Iwo had been so devastated by war, so overgrown by jungle, that they could not find their villages or their cemetery.

Last year, on a second visit, they found the cemetery after an extensive search that left little time for religious services during the one day allowed them. Last Friday, Kikuchi and the others flew from Tokyo, 700 miles away, to pay their respects to their ancestors properly.

When he left the island, it had a population of more than 1,000 living in six hamlets. Now it has a population of 87—48 U.S. airmen, 31 U.S. Coast Guardsmen and 8 Korean contract laborers. The farms and villages are gone. The United States has an air base and a Coast Guard station, and the Stars and Stripes flies over Mt. Suribachi, the volcano dominating the island. Jungle growth replaces the sugarcane that once was the main crop.

Amidst tall weeds, at the edge of an abandoned U.S. Navy basketball court, the old Iwo residents found the remains of their cemetery.

Two embassy escort officers—Owen Zurhellen of New York City, and John Farrior of Shelton, Conn.—had been with the U.S. 5th Marine Division in the initial landings on Iwo in February of 1945.

Zurhellen recalled, "It rained then just about like now." Farrior looked at the jungle weeds and commented: "We would have never got through that. The cane fields were easier going."

When the service was over, Kikuchi looked about, trying to remember where his family house and fields had been.

Did he still want to come back to live?

"Yes, I have fond memories," he replied. "I would come back tomorrow if I could—to farm and to fish."

Garden Clubbers Hold May Meet

The Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. M. M. Beer for their May meeting with 22 members present.

Miss Nell Titus, president conducted the meeting, and reporting on the Federation meeting of the Garden Club in Clarion, Miss Retta Punney, and Mrs. Evelyn P. Gallor responded, and showed the Laurel given to the Club for an outstanding program, and Mrs. Gallor for her program in horticulture and therapy.

Dessert was served at 2 p.m. by Miss Trae Johnson, and Mrs. Marie Loomis.

The Baltimore oriole is perhaps the most skillful artisan among the North American birds. The female weaves the dangling nest together and her handiwork has survived the severest of storms.

Shafer To Ask For Law Allowing Wiretapping

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gov. Shafer said yesterday he would ask the General Assembly this session for a law giving police the right to tap wires under court supervision.

"Our law enforcement officers should be allowed to use every weapon of the 20th Century in their pursuit of criminals," Shafer said.

Shafer said he would ask that Pennsylvania's laws against wire tapping be spiked and that the new bill give police the power to use any modern electronic snooping device.

This position put him in direct opposition to President Johnson, who has proposed that use of sophisticated eavesdropping be outlawed except in cases of national security.

"The national security is today being threatened by crime," Shafer said. "We must not limit an effective war on crime just as we would not restrict a total effort against a n y foreign aggression."

Shafer spoke to the Western Pennsylvania branch of the Council on Crime and Delinquency, a citizens action organization.

He called on big business to join government and private citizens in a war on crime.

"Crime in Pennsylvania costs more than one and one-half billion dollars a year," Shafer told the luncheon meeting, sprinkled with top figures from some of the state's biggest corporations.

"If this sum could be channeled into the legitimate economy of Pennsylvania — think of the value as increased purchasing power for your product," Shafer said.

He asked the businessmen to contribute time, money and men to the battle against crime.

Shafer did not go into detail about what safeguards would be built to preserve "those ancient rights guaranteeing due process to every citizen."

He said the state was also moving to take advantage of advanced technology in communications and computers.

"All data, from the time of arrest to the time of release, of any persons convicted of a crime in Pennsylvania must be collected and computerized . . ." he said. "The statistical information which would thus be available could be used by all branches of government involved in the administration of criminal justice . . ."

Court Rules Historian Didn't Defame H. C. Frick

By WILLIAM E. DEIBLER
CARLEISLE, Pa. (AP) — Cumberland County Court Judge Clinton R. Weidner ruled yesterday that a book written by a Pennsylvania historian did not defame the late Henry Clay Frick, a Pittsburgh industrialist.

Judge Weidner dismissed a suit brought by Miss Helen Clay Frick of Pittsburgh, 75-year-old spinster daughter of the mining magnate, who had asked the court to prohibit the sale and distribution of the book, "Pennsylvania: Birthplace of a Nation."

The book was written by Dr. Sylvester K. Stevens, 62, executive director of the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission. It was published by Random House, Inc., of New York City in 1964.

In a 51-page opinion, Judge Weidner said that, "Everything that the defendant (Stevens) wrote concerning Henry Clay was true."

He added that none of the statements that Miss Frick had objected to was libelous or defamatory, and that the alleged defamatory material was privileged — that is, immune from legal action.

Moreover, Judge Weidner said that even if Miss Frick could prove that the published material was defamatory, neither Frick's estate nor his descendants would have the right to take legal action.

Stevens said that the opinion would have national implications.

"This is more than a personal victory," Stevens said. "It is something of importance to everyone writing history and biography. I think some writers have been afraid to say what they would like to say since this suit was filed."

He added that he was pleased with the outcome, even though he never doubted that he would win the case.

Miss Frick filed the suit against Stevens in 1965, charging that the book blackened her father's memory and caused her to suffer "a loss of reputation and public esteem."

Ironically, Miss Frick learned of the book when Stevens sent her a copy as a present at Christmas, 1964.

Minister Says Church Shouldn't Be Silent on Social Issues

BUCK HILL FALLS, Pa. (AP) — The church should not remain silent on social issues, even when it cannot influence them, the Eastern Pennsylvania Lutheran Synod was told here yesterday.

The Rev. Dr. E. Thomas Spitz Jr., general secretary of the Lutheran Council in the U.S.A., said the church "must be willing to talk to, plan with, and perhaps work with government, as well as other community agencies."

Before its closing session Thursday the synod adopted a budget of $4.3 million for 1968, about $100,000 above this year's budget. Of the total some $2.8 million represents an assessment for the work of the national church.

Dr. Melvin Hammarberg, the Lutheran Church in America delegate to the synod, said the national church had a deficit of about $2.5 million last year and faces a similar deficit this year.

Muhlenberg College, Allentown, to which the synod gives $300,000 a year, announced an aid program for Lutherans planning to enter the ministry.

WNB to Collect Youngsville Sewage Bills

Residents of Youngsville are reminded by Borough Manager James' Malone, that, effective June 1, payment of water and sewage bills should be made to any of the nine offices of the Warren National Bank.

Malone said that payments will not be accepted at the borough office and that Warren National Bank has been designated as a collection agency.

In an agreement reached earlier this year between Warren National and Youngsville borough council, it was decided that the bank would handle all of the accounting and record-keeping for the water department, relieving the borough of this detail.

The computer center of the Warren National Bank will compute the water bills, print them and mail them. Payments may be mailed to the bank or paid in person at any of the branches, the bank, in turn, will remit to the borough of Youngsville.

Malone said there has been some confusion among customers regarding the new arrangement and emphasized that June 1 is the date for the new procedure.

He urged the cooperation of all residents in making payments under this more efficient accounting and collection system.

They voted to take Mrs. Fern Morton out to dinner. She has been a teacher in the school for many years. Mrs. Chester Bailey is in charge of arrangements.

Peggy Osborne was in charge of the program with Mrs. Harvey Martin, and Mrs. Lynn Osterlander showing slides. Games were played with all winning prizes.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Chester Bailey served refreshments.

Mr. Manford Smith spent the weekend in Rochester, N.Y., at a bowling convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Yoder and son took a trip to Florida. Mr. and Mrs. Alex Perkins are staying in Bear Lake for a few days. They are from Youngstown, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cornish went to New Orleans to a sawmill convention. They are now home.

Dies of Injuries

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A driver, injured Wednesday when his car hit a house along Route 66 in Manor Twp., Armstrong County, died in West Penn Hospital yesterday.

John Aikens, 37, of Apollo, was taken to Armstrong County Memorial Hospital at Kittanning after the crash and was transferred later to West Penn.

MAN HAS LOCAL RELATIVES

Lock Haven Boating Accident Claims One

The cold, choppy waters of the Susquehanna River at Hanna Park at the edge of the city of Lock Haven, claimed the life of a 30-year-old man with relatives in the Warren area.

Dale Furst Long Jr., son of the assistant principal of the Lock Haven Senior High School, was found on the bottom of the river, after a canoe in which he and two young companions were riding, overturned at 6:45 p.m. Wednesday.

Screams heard by a nearby resident when the canoe overturned sent three youths swimming to the scene while another man placed his canoe in the river to aid in the rescue of Long's passengers, Daniel Helbley, 9 and his brother, Mark, 10. A second man in a motorboat also appeared to assist.

The drowning victim had taken the two boys for a ride on the river near his new home, a cottage owned by his father in Monseytown, which is across the river from Lock Haven.

Those at the scene, after the two boys were rescued, did not immediately know that three persons had been in the canoe. Long's body had been submerged about 15 minutes before it was recovered. Mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and the use of a resuscitator at a hospital failed to revive the victim. Long was known to be a good swimmer.

A third unidentified man narrowly escaped drowning as he attempted to swim out to save Long, causing onlookers to believe the Long canoe held four persons.

Long, in addition to his parents, leaves his wife, Sandra Bottle Long and his 3½-month-old daughter Kelly Jo.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. today at the Helt Funeral Home in Lock Haven.

Woman Injured In Accident Near Tionesta

TIONESTA — A 52-year-old woman was admitted to Clarion Hospital Wednesday for treatment of injuries suffered in a car-truck crash on Route 66, Washington township, Clarion County.

Elizabeth Weaver, of Marble, Pa., sustained cuts and bruises when her car overturned after hitting a truck driven by Clair H. Amsler, 57, also of Marble.

According to state police of the Tionesta substation, Mrs. Weaver was passing the Amsler truck when several deer ran into her path. Police said she swerved to avoid hitting the deer and sideswiped the Amsler truck, overturning her car.

Amsler, who escaped injury in the mishap, drove Mrs. Weaver to the Clarion Hospital.

TIDIOUTE PICNIC AREA

Nestled along the bank of the Allegheny at Tidioute is this picnic spot with several tables, restroom facilities, and grills for picnickers. The overlook area was developed over the past year for the expected influx of visitors—and local residents—seeking outdoors enjoyment.

YMCA's Indian Guide Camp Set

This weekend will find about 100 big and little braves whooping it up at the annual Warren YMCA Indian Guide spring campout.

The event is for all members of the Y's Indian Guides and is held at Camp Onyahsa on Chautauqua Lake in DeWittville, N.Y.

A program of Indian lore is planned with fathers and sons attending. The emphasis of the group is the father-son relationship and one cannot attend any meeting without the other. Projects are done by both father and son as are all activities participated in.

All who have registered for the campout should try to get to camp by mid-afternoon tomorrow. John Prege, chief of the longhouse, is making all arrangements for food and registrations. Big and little braves will have a chance to go boating, canoeing, play games, participate in cook-outs, contests and possibly swimming.

On Sunday all the wives and other members of the family are invited for a thirteen picnic about noon. Each tribe is to make its own arrangements as to food and supplies for the Sunday picnic. The chief of each tribe is to make sure of the tribe's food.

The campout, which marks the largest attendance ever, will end in mid-afternoon Sunday.

Attend Training School

Margaret Quiggle and Mary Jane Chiodo, cosmetologists at Chiodo's Professional Pharmacy, have just returned from a three-day Estee Lauder training school held at the Warwick Hotel in Philadelphia.

Some 54 representatives of major department stores and shops from as far away as Delaware, New York and Ohio were in attendance.

The instructor, Miss Jo Packard, dealt primarily with usage and application of the varied treatment and makeup items in the popular Estee Lauder line.

All the items are carried exclusively by Chiodo's in this area.

Estee Lauder has this to say about her products: "The natural attitude is the point of view I think a woman should have about her makeup. It means she must learn to use the right cosmetics expertly enough to make her look as though she had not used any at all."

"Each of my makeup and beauty preparations is created to arrive at a look that's softer—y younger—than ever before. And all my cosmetics are as easy and elegant to wear as the contemporary fashions for which I have designed them."

Chiodo's is proud of its association with such a prestige line as Estee Lauder and pleased they could bring it to the Warren area. Mrs. Quiggle and Mrs. Chiodo are available to show the treatments, makeup, and fragrances and to recommend items suited to the individual.

Buffalo Hotel Is Not Sold

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The Statler Hilton Hotel, reported sold last week for approximately $3.7 million, has not been sold and may not be sold, The Buffalo Evening News said yesterday.

The newspaper said it as reported in business circles "the deal is practically off."

On May 24, real estate broker Irving L. Saperston said the 20-story, 1,035-room hotel was being purchased by Hyman B. Cantor, a principal in the Carter Hotel chain. The deal was to have been closed the next day, Saperston said.

Saperston said yesterday he had not heard that negotiations had fallen through.

THE FISHING IS GREAT

This fisherman is dipping his line in the best area for two miles along the Allegheny. It's the upper eddy near Tidioute, where muskellunge abound. This will be an often-repeated scene throughout the area this summer as anglers from throughout the three-state area arrive to try their luck.

State Police Prepare For Memorial Day

Capt. Robert L. Dunham, commanding officer, Pennsylvania State Police, Troop E, Erie, announces that extra traffic law enforcement will be in effect during the Memorial Day holiday period.

The control goes into effect at 6 p.m. today and will continue through midnight, Tuesday.

For this entire four-day, 102-hour period, all available personnel will be used for selective patrol coverage. Each patrol has been instructed to concentrate their efforts toward all violation and especially toward those which contribute most to serious accidents.

According to traffic statistics, areas of high accident frequency will receive added attention.

Radar teams will be in full operation and unmarked as well as marked vehicles will be used in patrol activity.

During the 78 hour Memorial Holiday period last year, 33 persons died on Pennsylvania highways. This year fatalities investigated by state police are running 18 per cent ahead of 1966.

Capt. Dunham urges motorists to drive within the legal speed limit and be extra cautious should roads become wet.

Area Men in Armed Service

Hospital apprentice John W. Gillett, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gillett of 614 Fourth ave., recently graduated from Hospital Corps School, Great Lakes, Ill. He is now attending Field Medical Service School at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

Robert Cornwall, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Cornwall of 213 Russell st., has been promoted to airman second class in the U.S. Air Force. A 1964 graduate of Warren Area High School, he is at Griffiss Air Force Base, N.Y. with the Strategic Air Command.

Borough Council Meets Monday; Consider Codes

Warren borough council meets in adjourned session at 7:30 p.m. Monday to move on codes and urban renewal.

Up for second reading are ordinances to adopt building, housing and plumbing codes which must be passed before urban renewal can gain momentum. An ordinance adopting a fire code is listed for first and second reading.

Council will also consider resolutions approving the urban renewal plan and a declaration of policy statement for its workable program which must be re-certified. Another resolution to be passed is that of the co-operation agreement for the Liberty st. urban renewal project.

It is also expected council will appoint new members to the Citizens Advisory Committee as recommended by that organization.

Ordinances accepting Edgewood pl. as a public st. and the extension of Conewango ave. and Lexington ave. are scheduled for first reading.

Borough Council Still Discussing Television Issue

The Warren borough council finance committee, directed to investigate the borough's position in regard to the controversy between subscribers to Warren Television, who held capital contribution certificates, has been meeting.

Borough manager Victor L. Miller said efforts have been made to arrange a conference with Television Communications of New York City officials to determine this municipality's position as to taking a stand on the matter.

According to Miller, it is anticipated an answer will be forthcoming as soon as possible.

Holders of the capital contribution certificates, which cost $125 originally, were asked by Warren Television to turn them in with a $57 rebate and an adjustment in rates over a set period.

Town Crier

... By Les Rickey

The American Automobile Association, in a news release which happened across my desk, has listed several traffic signs that not only get the message across, but tickle the funnybone while doing so.

As you enter the road to King's Canyon National Park in California, for instance, there is a sign which says, "This is NOT the road to Fresno." In Delaware as you go through a Y intersection, a sign tells you that "This is NOT U.S. 40."

In Nebraska, a sign warned that a curve was to be taken at "30 MPH." The accidents continued, and the Highway Department put up another: "We're not fooling—30 MPH!" It was so successful that several more like it went up.

In Dayton, Ohio, there is a sign that tells you there's "No Signal Ahead." In New Haven, a stop sign says, "Hesitate." In Watrace, Tenn., the home of the Tennessee walking horse, the stop sign says, "Whoa."

And a grade crossing in Illinois informs one that "The average train passes this crossing in 14 seconds—whether your car is on it or not."

But the best of all, in my opinion, is at Kelly Air Force Base in San Antonio. It says, "Drive Carefully—Hell Ain't Half Full."

Social

Wanderings

by Marion Honhart

A SUMMER CAMPING OPPORTUNITY will be offered by the Y-Teen Department of the YWCA for the first time in several years. The teenage camps to be in session for three days, from June 14 to 16 on Lake Chautauqua at the Lutheran Camp. Girls in the age range of 12 to 16 may register no later than June 7. The only requirement being a membership in the YWCA. Membership is just $1. Not a moment of boredom is guaranteed by the full program planned, which includes swimming, nature study, campcraft, dancing and drama. Special programs may be taken too, such as good grooming, teenage problems and a Junior Olympics. For any further information just call Mrs. William Pingrey, YWCA Y-Teen Director, at 723-6350.

OPEN CHURCH will be observed by Martha Nasky for her marriage to Paul Timothy Murray on Tuesday, May 30th, in Holy Redeemer Church. The Rev. Father Joseph Seyboldt will celebrate the Nuptial Mass. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Nasky of 105 Center street, and the prospective groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Murray of Buffalo, N.Y.

ALSO OBSERVING OPEN CHURCH will be Sally Krimmel tomorrow at 1 o'clock in the Grace Methodist church when she exchanges wedding vows with David Hunter. Sally is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Krimmel of 11 Canton street, and her husband-to-be is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mendell Hunter of East 5th street, Extension. The Rev. Findley will officiate.

ANOTHER ANNUAL GATHERING OF THE CLAN, so to speak, is approaching when present residents and former residents of East Branch travel from north, west, east and south to meet once again for Home Coming Day. The East Branch Grange is preparing the dinner for this traditional observance—and, in order for everyone to be able to make it, it will be served on two days this year, Sunday, May 28th, and on Memorial Day, May 30th. The dinner will be served at the East Branch Grange on the Spring Creek road. The menu will start off at noon with home roasted turkey and all the fixings and condiments, ending up with the flaky goodness of homebaked pies. And, for those who wish to stay on into evening, or snack inbetween, the cooks are going to prepare hotdogs and hamburgers. Tickets are $1.50 for adults, and children under 12 only half-price. The grange wants you to be sure and come on one of the two days, but would be really glad to have you and your family on both days if it pleases you. Everyone is invited.

MINIATURES: McClintock PTA has elected its new officers for the 1967-68 school term: President, Howard J. Anderson; vice president, Robert Denard; treasurer, Mrs. Carol Hanson; secretary, Mrs. Carmen Colosimo. The next meeting will be in September.

The Rev. Don Powell, seen each Sunday on Channel 35 and 12 Erie TV, will be present in the banquet room of the Penn Laurel on Monday, May 29th, at 7:30. Everyone is welcome; admission is free.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I don't sleep in my wife's nightgowns, nor do I wear her girdle, but if I did I can't see that it would be any of your business—or anyone else's for that matter. Recently I had an experience along these lines and it burned me up.

I have been having trouble with my ankles lately, a general weakness of the muscles. My podiatrist suggested that I walk around the house in my wife's high heels for an hour or two during the evening. The other night the kid who delivers papers came to collect. I answered the door in my wife's high heels. The boy almost died laughing, and now it is all over the neighborhood.

Why are people so eager to put two and two together and get six? I hope you will print my letter and open a few eyes.—NORMAN NORMAN

DEAR NORMAN: Apparently the eyes are already open. It's the mouths you are having trouble with. In all fairness, you can hardly blame the kid. One does not expect to see the man of the house klomping around in his wife's shoes. You asked for it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What do you think of parents of a working son or daughter who demand a share of that person's salary even though they don't need it?

I am 19, have a good job and want to save some money so I can be married. But how can I save anything when these vultures demand one-fourth of my paycheck every week?

I have been working for seven months but I never had to pay any board or room. Suddenly my folks decided I should contribute to the house. They told me I have no choice—either contribute or leave. Can they evict me? What are my legal rights?—SON OF MONEY GRABBERS

DEAR SON: Legal rights vary according to the state, but in my opinion, this is not a matter of law, it is a matter of personal integrity.

A boy 19, who is earning money and living at home, should pay something for room and board (and laundry, I'll bet plus telephone and maid-service, etc.) whether his folks need it or not. He should pay because he does not want to be a parasite. Your attitude leaves a lot to be desired, fella.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please settle an argument: My fiancé and I plan to be married soon. Her family is from another country. None of them will be able to attend the wedding. My parents are giving us the wedding reception as a gift.

The problem is that my parents want us to set all of the gifts aside and open them in their presence—just the four of us. My fiancé and I feel that these are OUR gifts and we should not be asked to share the opening with anyone, what do you say?—FEELINGS AT STAKE

DEAR FEELINGS: Why be so selfish? Pass the joy around. If they want to be present, let them. It costs you nothing.

What is love? How does it differ from sexual attraction? Read "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference," by Ann Landers. Send 35 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Reception For New Pastor

On Monday evening, May 22, the Church of the Nazarene held a reception for the Reverend John Gardner and family. Guests were received by Dr. and Mrs. Glenn Frazier who introduced the members and friends to the guests of honor.

The evening program was introduced by William McFarland, who presented the "Diary of a Paragonist," Carol Clifton, as mistress of ceremonies, presented Barbara and David Corlett in a welcome recitation, and Ronald Rieder who extended church greetings. After several numbers by the Male Quartet, gifts were presented to each member of the pastor's family as follows: the Rev. Viola Burch to Mrs. Gardner; Debra Lawson to Deborah Gardner; the Huck twins to Mark Gardner; Linda Fuller to Joanna Gardner; and Jane Easterling to Rebecca Gardner. An original poem, given by Mrs. John McIntire, closed the program.

Pictures were taken during the evening by Paul Sundberg, roving photographer. The pictures were then compiled into a book and presented to the pastor and family.

Mrs. Kenneth Sorenson acted as chairman of the reception committee, assisted by Mrs. George Baker, Mrs. William Spetz, and Mrs. Roger McFarland. Miss Jacqueline Grinnon and Mrs. James Goerlich presided at the refreshment table.

The Reverend John Gardner accepted the pastoral duties of the Church of the Nazarene on May 9. He has formerly served as pastor in New Cumberland, Pennsylvania.

Jane Porter's Highland And Folk Dancers To Perform

All is in readiness for a benefit program for North Warren School to be held on the evenings of May 31 and June 1, the dates when Jane Porter will present her Folk and Highland Dancers on the stage of the school auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

Winners have been announced in a poster contest held at the school to promote interest in the benefit. Only 4th, 5th, and 6th grades participated. Elizabeth S. McClain, local artist and member of the Warren Art League, acted as judge. The winners were as follows: Mark Hilse, 1st prize; Laureen Anderson, 2nd prize; Ginny Happ, 3rd prize; honorable mention, Carol Uhlig, Beth Nelson, Richard Cook, Rodney Peterson, Mark Snarburg, Allison Pedersen, Rebecca Gent, Gloria Dingeldein. Posters are displayed in various local store windows.

Jane Porter's students who will participate in the benefit program are: Becky Becker, Janine Betts, Carla Mark, and Jill Brecht, Lisa and Steve Brecht, Lisa Blanchard, Timmy Brown, Ginny, Marcia, and Lisa Happ, Beth and Debbie Hastings, Karen Henderson, Mark and Gina Hilse, Marilee Hollabaugh, Cathie, Lorraine and Terry Ley, Dianne and Bobby McClain, Sandy and Sherry Myers, Wendy Lightner, Bruce and Jackie Ruth Porter, Laurie Tranter, Hatty Tsai, Debbie Waite, Kathy Way, and Julie Wendell.

At a cost of 75 cents for adults and 25 cents for students and pre-schoolers, tickets are selling well. They may be obtained from Jane Porter or her students. In addition, they will be on sale at the Jamesway store this evening and all day tomorrow.

The Halls Of Ivy

JOHN A. TAFT, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Taft, Star Route, Irvine, has been accepted for enrollment in the Business Management Systems Course at Erie Business Center, John will graduate with this year's WAHS Class of 1967. He will enter the Freshmen Class at EBC in September.

Hints From Heloise

Uses For Plastic

DEAR HELOISE:

Just wrapped a package for mailing and had the idea of packing the extra space around the gifts with the plastic bags from the cleaners.

These bags don't add weight to a package like paper does yet they hold gifts nicely in place, and provide good cushioning because of the air pockets in the crumpled up plastic. Mary Monaco

DEAR HELOISE:

Many of us have to carry little nitro tablets with us at all times, so I thought others might appreciate my solution.

I purchased a gold locket about the size of a quarter. The tiny nitro pills fit perfectly into my locket and it eliminates the necessity of carrying a pill bottle around.

Thus I have my medicine with me at all times, and a beautiful piece of jewelry in the bargain.

(My husband had the locket engraved saying they were nitro tablets and why I needed them.) M.B.H.

DEAR HELOISE:

I was looking for something to carry a cake to a dinner party when I discovered something unusual.

I turned a large cereal box on its side and slipped my fresh oblong cake into it. Then I put a plastic bag over the whole thing.

When I arrived at the dinner, my cake looked as nice as when freshly frosted. K. K.

DEAR HELOISE:

After breaking my ignition key off in my locked car door I learned a lesson.

I wrote that original key number on my driver's license so if I break or lose it again I can easily have one made. Mrs. W. R. Hill

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE: The best way to ease your fears, tears and troubles is to interest yourself in others. A. M.

Engagements Announced

Dr. and Mrs. Albert W. Baisler of Jamestown, New York, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Ann Van Amberg, also of San Francisco, to Ronald J. Van Amberg, son of Dr. Robert Van Amberg of Montclair, New Jersey, and of Mrs. Van Amberg of Glen Ridge, New Jersey, and South Hampton, Long Island.

Miss Baisler is a graduate of Jamestown High School and Chatham College, Pittsburgh. She was formerly director of Faculty Housing, Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass., and is currently sales representative for Patent Research and Marketing in San Francisco.

Mr. Van Amberg, a graduate of Trinity-Pawling School, College University, is presently attending Hastings Law School, University of California.

The wedding is planned for August 19 in the First Presbyterian Church of Jamestown, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Manelick of 219 East Bloss street, Titusville, Pa., former resident of Youngsville, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Janet Linda, to Timothy M. Barnett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max C. Barnett of Titusville, RD 1.

Miss Manelick is a 1965 graduate of Titusville High School and is employed as secretary at the Titusville Area Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Barnett also a 1965 graduate of Titusville High School, attended Pennsylvania State University at University Park, Pa., for one year and is currently stationed with the U.S. Navy at Key West Naval Air Station, Key West, Florida.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Mothers Day was established in 1907 by a schoolteacher named Anna M. Jarvis in Grafton, W. Va. Her one-woman crusade for a national Mothers Day won official recognition in 1914 when President Woodrow Wilson proclaimed the second Sunday in May a national holiday honoring Mother.

A New You by Emily Wilkens

Skin Care And Makeup

Which of these products should you use? Soap?...Face powder?...Witch hazel?...Eyeliner?...Eye Cream?...Creme rouge?

The answer is that you may need some of these or all of them. Frequently girls don't realize that a clean well-groomed face can be pretty without makeup, while a made-up face can't possibly mask neglected skin.

As in all beauty routines, there are definite steps to follow for good skin care and competent makeup application. If you take too many shortcuts in either routine, you'll only short circuit your own best appearance.

Proper skin care is the only way you can recapture that baby-soft skin you were born with. Learn to keep all skin conditions under control, whether you have normal, dry, oily, combination, or blemish-prone skin, which may need medical attention.

In order for your skin to be lovelier, be sure you follow this or a similar daily routine:

1. Cleansing: Skin should be scrubbed clean, using water as the base, soap if your skin can take it, or any other special cleaning agent.

2. Toning: Astringents tone the skin, give it vitality. In areas that tend to be oily, use witch hazel or a favorite astringent that pleases your complexion.

3. Lubricating: Creams or oils are necessary in most skin care plans. Special face, eye or neck creams or non-allergic baby oil or castor oil are possibilities. Always apply before bedtime; leave on for ten minutes, then remove with tissues. Avoid puffy morning eyes by blotting the under-eye area carefully.

Makeup has been around almost as long as soap and water. Through the ages girls have always found ways to give nature a helping hand. Today, of course, there are myriad products to compliment you and—unfortunately, in some cases—confuse you.

The best rule of thumb is to use as much makeup as you need—not more! If you have big beautiful eyes with luxurious eye lashes, why bother with all that eye makeup? If your clean skin glows, why mask the glow with foundation?

In selecting the best cosmetics for you, keep this guide in mind. All products should agree with your skin—don't depend on getting used to them. Colors must harmonize with your skin and the price should be in line with your budget, the quality unquestionable. (Many reasonably priced items have the same ingredients as highly advertised, elegantly packaged choices.)

Pick or choose from these products to complete your makeup routine:

1. Makeup base — either liquid cream or cake. If you have a problem complexion, investigate the medicated type which heal and cover at the same time.

2. Rouge — liquid, cream or blusher.

3. Powder — the colorless kind is most effective.

4. Eye makeup — eye shadow, (cream or powder form); eyeliner (liquid, pencil, or cake); mascara (cake, wand or cream) and if you need it, eyebrow powder or pencil. The Egyptians had nothing on us with today's focus on lavish eyes.

5. Lipstick — basic wardrobe should have a true red, a blue-red and a coral or honey shade. Also, lip gloss for topcoat and lip base for under coat.

Put these beauty routines together to make up the most complementary combo for A NEW YOU.

JUST FOR YOU: Dip a sponge in cold water, squeeze, then pat your face lightly, let dry naturally to set makeup to look dewy and fresh for hours.

South Street Pupils Chorus Gives Program For PTA

South Street school P.T.A. met Monday May 22. The program preceding the business meeting was the Sixth Grade Chorus under the direction of Howard Andersen, Elementary Singing Instructor.

Students who participated were:

Carleton Sheldon, Jeff Sedon, Kathy Maze, Mike Plehuta, Bruce Punske, Tom Huber, John Redfield, Lynn Hodas.

The incoming president of Warren Council P.T.A., Mrs. A. A. Elias, installed the new officers of South Street School P.T.A.

Teacher Recognition was highlighted by the president, Mrs. Paul Dulliba, presenting a check from the P.T.A. to David Merenick, school principal, for the teachers.

Mrs. Paul Dulliba reported on the Ice Cream Social held May 3, as being a huge success, and the P.T.A. thanked all who participated.

Another check was presented to Principal Merenick by the P.T.A. to be used for field trips. One trip in the planning is for the Sixth Grade Chorus to visit and present singing selections to the Plank Road School in Watson Twp. It was interestingly noted that the Plank Road School is the only one room school left in Pennsylvania.

The books were audited and found accurate by the auditing committee: Mr. Jonathan Carlson, Mrs. Santo Pascuzzi and Mrs. Peter Carnovale.

The Attendance Award was won by Miss Bubash's Sixth Grade.

Hostesses for the evening refreshments were Mrs. Santo Pascuzzi and Mrs. Walter Engleish.

Home Street Staff Entertained

Home Street School Parents Club entertained their teachers with a banquet at Trinity Memorial Church on Monday night. The sixty-five persons in attendance were served a delicious meal by Schuyler's.

The color scheme of silver and red was carried out with candelabra and red velvet centerpieces with silver boxes filled with jewels. New officers were introduced by Ralph Pasquino: Carl Papalia, president; Ken Holtz, vice president; Ruth Clepper, secretary; and Marge Bouquin, treasurer.

A skit entitled "Regal Remorse" was written especially for the teachers by Genie Volkman, Elsie Pasquino and Barb Koebley. It was narrated by John Smith and the performers were Marge Brown, Bobby Holding, Anne Scallise, Gail Lopez, Lois Hoyer, Marilyn Simonsen, Anne Zetterlind and Genie Volkman.

The general chairman was Rachel Robertson with invitations done by Linda Samaragya; decorations by Anne Smith, Anne Zetterlind and Rachel Robertson.

Grange Reports

Warren Grange held its regular meeting with a Memorial Service in the charge of Chaplain Mildred Marlett, in which the following were remembered: Nellie Hoffman, Fred Devore, Freeman Peterson, Katherine Smith, Pearl Bilsky, Inez Rudolph, Nellie Samuelson and the Past State Master Beatty Demitt.

Those assisting were the Grange Master, lecturer and secretary.

Following the meeting the Seventh Degree 1st and 2nd degree team had a practice session. The next regular meeting of the Grange will be on Monday, June 5, at 8 p.m., when the lecturer will present the program. It will be a repeat of the visitation meeting program, for the benefit of members who couldn't be present then.

Warren Grange Home Economics Group will meet on Tuesday, June 6, at 10:30 a.m. Bring a sack lunch. Coffee will be provided.

Brokenstraw Grange met on Tuesday of this week. The highlight of the meeting was the initiation of a new class of candidates from Brokenstraw, Ackley, and East Branch Granges into the 1st and 2nd degrees. The Seventh Degree Association's degree team officiated at the ceremony. The same candidates will receive the 3rd, and 4th degrees at the meeting of Brokenstraw Grange on Tuesday, June 13.

Grange "Church Month" was observed by the Lecturer, Ruth Jameson, and the chaplain, Sagrid Johnsen in the lighting of the Grange Centennial Candle. Reports of committees were also heard and the members were reminded that Saturday, June 17, is the deadline for the Leadership School to be conducted at Gettysburg.

FLOATING BOTTLES

MAY NOT BELITTER

NEW YORK (AP) — Bottles floating on the ocean waves this summer won't necessarily be a sign of seagoing liturgies.

Scientists of the Tropical Atlantic Biological Laboratory are releasing 7,000 bottles this spring in the Atlantic Ocean and Caribbean Sea in connection with the lab's study of ocean surface currents.

According to the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute, bottles have been known to travel distances greater than 6,000 miles through the fury of hurricanes and buffeting tides. Because of their superior strength and resistance to corrosion, bottles are one of the world's most seaworthy objects.

Warren Campus Offers Seven Summer Courses

Students attending summer classes at Warren Campus of Edinboro State College, will have seven courses to choose from, according to campus director Frank Johnson.

The courses are English I, American Literature, Fundamentals of Speech, History of the United States and Pennsylvania II, American Government, College Algebra, and Basic Biology I. Each course offers three credits.

Hours for the courses conflict in some instances. English I, History II and College Algebra are scheduled for 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. American Lit, American Government, and Basic Biology are slated for 7:30 to 9 p.m. The speech course is from 9 to 10:30 a.m.

The summer session will begin June 26 and continue through Aug. 4. Classes will be Mondays through Fridays.

Those eligible to take the courses are regularly enrolled students at Edinboro, newly accepted students who expect to continue courses in September at the campus, persons who wish to take courses for personal or professional improvement and high school students who have the approval of their principal to take college work. The maximum number of hours for each student is six semester hours.

Admission requirements for new students are at least one of the following: an official letter of acceptance to Edinboro for regular or special status; an official transcript of record from an accredited college or a document indicating college or university graduation; a certificate valid for teaching in Pennsylvania; an official letter from the dean of the college where the student was graduated or has been accepted for entry (letter must approve the courses to be taken at Edinboro), or an official letter from the high school principal or guidance counselor for approved college work.

Registration for the summer session will be held at the Warren Campus building on East street on June 26. Fees are $12.50 per semester hour for Pennsylvanians, $20 per semester hour for out-of-state students. There will be no student activity fee charged for the summer session. All fees are due on registration day. Students must purchase insurance for $5, covering the six-week period.

Those wishing to enroll must contact the college by mail or telephone (726-0291) as soon as possible. A minimum enrollment is necessary to guarantee a course will be taught.

Warren High Prom Set Tomorrow

By KAYE GORENFLO

Tomorrow is The Big Day at Warren High. Emerging from paint, wood, and weeks of toil will be the annual Junior-Senior Prom.

Following the standard tradition at Warren High School, the theme of the prom has been kept a secret from the seniors and sophomores, although a few seniors have managed to torture it out of the poor juniors and a few sophomores have been discovered listening at keyholes.

The class of '68' has been working steadily for the last few months, with the past week being especially hectic. Clad in paint splattered sweatshirts and jeans, they have been seen toting lumber, mixing paint, and stopping at the Red Barn for a quick pick-me-up. Murals had to be painted, paper mache had to be molded, and crepe paper cherry blossoms (oops!) had to be made.

A big thank-you goes to the hardworking junior class advisor, Mrs. Mary Creek, for all the personal help she has given and appreciation also goes to the two co-chairmen of the Prom - Jim Grillo and Nancy Rush - and to all the co-chairmen of the various areas for doing more than their part.

Well, tomorrow is The Day - the day that all the seniors have been waiting for and all the juniors hoped wouldn't come (until they were ready for it). For one magic evening, the Warren High School will be transformed into a -- but wait, it's a secret!

Sheffield Prom: 'A Little Bit Of Heaven' Theme

By JILL BURGASON

On May 20 the Sheffield High School Gymnasium was turned into "A Little Bit of Heaven."

The Junior-Senior Prom was a combination of angels, clouds, and light blue sky. The 1967 prom queen, Sandy Hecel, and her king, John Sixt, were crowned and seated in the midst of pillars and angel hair.

Music for the prom was provided by Teddy Armond.

At 6:00 that same evening the Junior-Senior banquet took place in the high school cafeteria. The meal was prepared by the high school cafeteria staff and was served by sophomore and junior girls.

The entire evening proved to be very enjoyable for all who attended.

Body-surfing is the sport of sea lions in the Galapagos Islands. The fast-swimming mammals often play all day, charging out about 200 yards to catch waves and ride them in.

PLANS FOR NEXT YEAR

Marshall Heads BJHS League

By LOIS BUERKLE

Denny Marshall, the Citizenship League's new president, is already busy planning for next year's activities. His program for the League next year involves sponsoring frequent sports nights, conducting a seventh grade orientation program, giving continued support to the Korean war orphan, and having more school dances.

In addition to being elected League President this year, Denny also received the DAR history award; was chosen for the American Legion award as outstanding eighth grade boy; received his Silver "B"; was inducted into the National Junior Honor Society.

For a week during the summer, plans are being made for Denny, the vice-president Scott Oelslager, and the secretary and treasurer to attend a Leadership Workshop at St. Mary's College, Maryland. Here they will learn their duties, how to perform them, parliamentary procedure and how to operate a student council effectively.

The officers will meet with the 30 new homeroom representatives during the summer to make plans for the 67-68 school year and to organize their program.

The League advisor is Mrs. Dorothy Collins assisted by several Faculty members.

Elsie Hospitalized

By DIANNE HANNOLD and SUE MACKS

A Youngsville girl is recuperating in the Warren General Hospital from injuries suffered in an automobile mishap. Elsie is missed by all her friends and would enjoy hearing from them. Her address is: Miss Elsie Bacon, Room 181, Warren General Hospital, Warren, Penna.

Youngsville Preps for Graduation

By Sue Macks

Dianne Hannold

As the six-week period approaches its close, the Seniors at Youngsville High School are entering a month filled with traditional, pre-graduation activities.

These activities really began on April 8, with the annual Sports Banquet. At this banquet, Eagle athletes were honored for their participation in football, track, and basketball. The Seniors for the last time and the sophomores for the first.

On April 29, the juniors honored their departing classmates at the Junior-Senior Banquet. And as Mr. Landin stated at that time, "the Seniors were beginning their long last week."

May 12 marked the Junior-Senior Prom, South Sea Paradise and the Seniors danced till midnight, to the Clarion State College Dance Band, at their last high school prom.

On May 17, Awards Day, the many clubs and activities honored departing Seniors and important members. Connie Chapel and Milt Johnson were awarded the coveted Babe Ruth Awards at this ceremony.

May 31 marks the day for the final grades for the Seniors. On this day caps and gowns will be distributed to the day-counting Seniors.

June 1 is the last day of 12 years of preliminary schooling for the 12th graders. All books will be returned and all fines paid.

Rehearsal for the Baccalaureate service will be on June 2 with the Baccalaureate ceremony set for June 4. At 7:00 that same evening, the Seniors will have the last official picture of the class taken.

On June 5, the Seniors report to the school auditorium at 8:45 a.m. for commencement rehearsal and at 9:30 a.m. they will leave by bus, for their senior trip to Conneaut Park.

On June 6th, there is commencement rehearsal at 10:00 a.m. and on June 8 the Seniors of Y.H.S. will march into the auditorium at 8:00 to receive their diplomas.

Sylvie Laporte New YHS Student

By DIANNE HANNOLD and SUE MACKS

On Tuesday, May 16, the Laporte family changed its residence from Sedan, France to Irvine, Penna. Mr. Laporte is employed by the National Forge Co. in Irvine. An only child, Sylvie has entered the 7th grade at Youngsville High School. Although she spoke no English when she arrived, she is a very apt pupil in the language and a challenge to French speaking students at the high school.

Youngsville High Sets Practice For Graduates

By DIANNE HANNOLD
and SUE MACKS

On June 2 the Seniors will begin to practice for the Baccalaureate Services to be held June 4, 7:00 p.m. at Youngsville High School.

The prelude will be played by Mr. Robert English. Following will be the processional. The Invocation and Lord's Prayer will be given by Rev. William C. Wilbert. A hymn, "Lead Us, O Father" is next. Rev. Wilbert will also read the scripture and have the Evening Prayer. An anthem will be sung by the Girl's Ensemble directed by Miss Diane Bodemer.

Rev. James Sorrow will present the sermon entitled "Milestones and Roadsigns".

The Benediction will be pronounced by Rev. Wilbert. Finally the Recessional played by Linda Hannold and the Senior Class of 1967 will leave.

What's Your Choice?

By CINDY GLOTZ
and MITZI BREZEE

For six long years, the seniors at Eisenhower High School have been working for one goal—graduation.

Now as the big moment draws near, the seniors and their relatives face a big problem: What do they want for graduation? In order to help parents and relatives with this senior situation, we have taken a survey of about forty people to get some idea of what a senior wants and needs. Here are some of our results.

The one most prominent answer to the above question was money. This green dirty paper seems to hold the favoritism of quite a few people. Seriously, looking at money for a gift can be truly sensible. With this gift the seniors can buy anything he may want or need at the time when he may be looking for a job.

Luggage also held a smart second place in the running answers. As for a student who has decided on college for awhile, luggage would be the ideal gift.

Many of the girls who were approached gave the question much thought and then popped out the word "jewelry". Watches, necklaces, charms and pins are in the limelight.

One girl in our class wants to take flying lessons. However, when you do purchase a gift for a graduating young man or woman, you have to take their interests into consideration. Don't buy something that they will never use.

Another idea for the college-accepted senior would be a College dictionary. These come in handy for all college grade students.

Many seniors would enjoy having their graduation gift this summer. Many students would enjoy a trip to some state to see a person they haven't seen in a long time, or just an inexpensive trip to the next state.

Other gifts named were a tape recorder, typewriter, or a clock-radio. Electric shavers for the man and woman were also high scorers.

For the relative who wants to spend just a little extra on their graduating senior, a car would be a nice gift. However, everyone seems to be in agreement that the gift most desired is a signed high school diploma.

SENIOR WEEK STARTS JUNE 4

Ike High Graduation June 8

By CINDY GLOTZ
and Mitzi Brezee

As graduation day draws near, the seniors at Eisenhower High School are getting a little nervous and excited all at the same time. The big day will be Thursday, June 8 on the high school campus. Graduation seems to be in the air. It is like spring fever—everyone is catching it. The order of events of Senior Week at E.H.S. begins on Sunday, June 4 with Baccalaureate services through Saturday, June 10, the Alumni Banquet.

To start the week off Baccalaureate services are scheduled to begin at 2:00 p.m., Sunday afternoon, June 4. Speaker for the service will be Rev. Donald Williams of the North Main Church of God in Jamestown, New York. Rev. Williams will be assisted by Rev. Roger Buzard.

The next day, the Seniors will start their annual trip to Conneaut Lake Amusement Park. They will leave the school Monday morning by bus at 8:40 a.m. and will spend the day at the park. They will return to the school at approximately 7:00 p.m.

Tuesday night is a night for fun as the seniors and juniors embark upon Class Night. This is the night when the seniors will the juniors different articles or abilities that tie in with an event that has happened during the school year. A play is performed, songs are sung, awards are given, and everyone in general has a great time.

The Senior Banquet is slated to begin at 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, June 7. It will be held at the Jackson Valley Country Club. There will be a formal dinner and later at 8:00 dancing will begin. The banquet will end around 11:00 p.m.

June 8, marks the final step for the Seniors of Eisenhower High. On this day at 8:00 p.m., they will receive their diplomas. Speaker for Commencement will be Mr. Jack Binney. He will be assisted by the Rev. T. E. Spoford of Sugar Grove. The presentation of diplomas will be carried out by Henry Peterson. Graduation is the one big event in every Senior's life, and the seniors at E.H.S. hope for a clear, sunny day to top their big day off. It will mark the closing of six memorable years they have spent here at Eisenhower High School.

Gifts for Graduates? Well, Nearly Anything

By SUE MACKS
and DIANNE HANNOLD

Graduation time is just around the corner, and relatives and friends are racking their brains for ideas for graduation gifts. A recent survey of Youngsville High School Seniors disclosed many articles which the kids, themselves, would like or need.

For the college bound students, dictionaries of varied sorts were desired, language dictionaries for the language major, Thesaurus, dictionaries of antonyms and synonyms, and general dictionaries. More in the book category were classics and books of poetry.

Tape recorders, portable typewriters, and cameras were also considered useful gifts for the college coeds, along with gifts for specified fields of endeavor such as slide rules or medical dictionaries.

For the girls, hair dryers and luggage ranked tops. Many said they would prefer clothes for college or money to put away. Jewelry and perfume were feminine touches which were thought excellent gifts for any occasion. For the girl with a charm bracelet, a graduation charm with a special inscription would always be cherished.

The boys were less outspoken, but most them said they would like money or clothes. A good watch or pen and pencil set were also agreed upon as nice gifts.

Seniors, in the majority, agreed upon two main ideas in the line of graduation presents. They wanted something they could use in college or working, or something that would remind them of graduation always.

And Suddenly, It's Summer

By SUE MACKS
and DIANNE HANNOLD

As the days come within counting distance of summer vacation, the thoughts of many teenagers throughout the county are turning toward those three months of school-free days. And what are their plans for the summer?

Many are going to summer schools. Either to further their own education or to catch up on subjects, missed or failed. Youngsville, Warren and Eisenhower High Schools are planning such programs this summer. Also, Edinboro off-campus, in Warren, is offering courses to interested and qualified students.

Some lucky individuals will be playing in the sun every day and enjoying the summer activities. They have a dance to look forward to each weekend, somewhere, and the Youngsville pool, Chapman's Dam, Kinzua and Allegheny State Parks to go to, to cool off. They might make the scene at some resort area or lake cottage for one or two weeks with some friends or their parents.

Others will join the working forces to "earn their keep" or save for college, clothes or a motorbike. The qualified life-savers will hit the beaches and pools to earn those dollars and toast to a dark brown. Many of the boys will turn to the gas stations and road work. Some will apprentice themselves to carpenters, brick layers and painters. The schools hire many boys to clean up the buildings after nine months of torture. Mowing lawns and washing cars are always good for a few dollars, too.

Boys and girls alike will "make with the smiles" and, "May I help you?", in the local stores. Some of the girls will supply the clerical energy at local firms or stores. Warren General Hospital and Warren State Hospital are asking for summer help from the masses of unemployed. Restaurants and dairy bars, catering to the vacationers, will also use some of the willing workers.

For the older teenagers, there is the opportunity of working at summer camps as counselors or aides. Driving, as a profession, is also another opening.

Whatever the summer plans, you can be sure everyone will claim to be "busy", and next fall, after experiences have been swapped, you'll hear many groan, "Why didn't I think of that!" Here were just a few ideas for the people in the latter group.

Raiding the refrigerator is an old Japanese custom. Travelers who stay at Japanese-style inns (ryokan) will usually find a small, well-stocked electric refrigerator in their rooms. Ryokan guests can raid their own refrigerators. They are charged only for items they consume.

Cigarette Smoking Is Said Contagious

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A government physician said Tuesday that cigarette smoking is, in a very real sense, contagious.

"Our young people are caught every way they turn with an onslaught of advertising, blatant and subtle, that persuades them of the sophistication and social grace that cigarette smoking can give them," said Dr. Donald R. Chadwick, director of the National Center for Chronic Disease Control.

"Although the age of serious contagious disease has all but passed from the national scene, in a very real sense, cigarette smoking is as contagious as measles," he told the annual meeting of the National Tuberculosis Association.

"Unfortunately," he said, "our scientists have not yet come up with a cigarette vaccine."

Chadwick said a National Clearinghouse on Smoking and Health is trying all kinds of educational means "to help our citizens who wish to stop smoking and encourage the young never to start. The clearinghouse is also conducting behavioral research to learn more about smoking behavior and educational approaches to this problem."

Cigarette smoking, Chadwick said, has gone up six per cent in the three years since the surgeon general's report on smoking and health.

"However," Chadwick added, "it is comforting to think about the additional millions of people who might have taken up cigarette smoking if the report had not appeared. There are 19 million ex-smokers in the United States, an indication that health education has had some effect."

Youngsville High Prepares for June 8 Graduation

By SUE MACKS
DIANNE HANNOLD

The Commencement ceremonies for Youngsville High School have been set for Thursday June 8. At this time 119 Seniors will graduate from the Eagle nest.

Featured speakers for the evening are: Dr. Chester T. Mc Nerney, President of Edinboro State College, and Mr. Felix Matthews. Valedictorian, Sue Reagle, will speak to her classmates and Karen Giegerich Salutatorian, will address the audience. Their topic will be, "Out of its dreams youth builds its tomorrows." Invocation and Benediction will be given by Rev. Lyston Knappenberger. Junior ushers for the evening will be: John Thompson, William Coons, Wallace Long Jr., Dennis Walton, Sandra Ongley, Linda Jordan, Linda Hannold, and Mary Bernard. Aides will be James Williams and Gary Wood.

No School Tuesday

By DIANNE HANNOLD
and SUE MACKS

No school on Tuesday! That means an extra day to study for finals and a free Monday night. The Mere Mortals: John, Roy, Rick, Doug and Roger, are having a dance from 8:30-11:30 at the Youngsville Skiways. The price is only 75 cents to dance to the sound of this swinging group.

Youngsville Canteen Sets Dance

Youngsville Youth Canteen

This Friday night, May 26, the Youngsville Youth Canteen, a community teenage group, is sponsoring a dance at the Youngsville Skiways from 8:00-11:30. Featured singing group for the evening is the Mere Mortals. Price will be 75 cents.

The newly re-organized Youth Canteen is governed and run by local teenagers under the guidance of 3 parent-couples; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Giegerich, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McCanna, and Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Myers. President of the group is Chris Spear. Secretary is Mary Mulvey, and the Treasurer is Steve Wood. At the moment, the office of Vice President is unfilled but elections for all offices will take place in the near future.

The group has sponsored a car wash and two Rent-a-Kid Days to raise money. They hope to use this money to sponsor weekly dances throughout the summer. Another goal of this community action group is to sponsor a recreation all-purpose room for local teenagers.

This group has no affiliation with the high school and is acting independently in the community. Meetings are every Tuesday evening at 7:00 at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Giegerich, 631 North Main Street in Youngsville. All interested teenagers are invited to attend these meetings.

Jamestown Starts New Tutor Plan

A unique tutoring program, which utilizes the talents of more than a dozen "A" students, and a recently concluded program to explain modern mathematics to parents, were cited as a success by the Jamestown board of education, in their regular meeting held Tuesday night.

The tutoring program, under the supervision and with the assistance of librarian, and five teachers is conducted by "A" student who have volunteered to assist other students. The student-tutors are paid for their efforts under a program whose total cost is paid by federal funds, according to Robert K. Howe, assistant superintendent of schools.

The program which is just starting will be carried out on a four-night-a-week basis with students in the program having access to library facilities and receiving help in various subjects, Howe said.

Howe and School Supt. Dr. Harold L. O'Neal expressed gratification at the large initial turnout and predicted success for the program.

The math program, which has just been concluded, involved two-hour weekly sessions, at each of the city's three junior high schools, and was conducted over a 10-week period.

Richard Black, mathematics department head, said, the program, to explain modern math to parents, drew an average weekly attendance of 210. "Many parents attending the course were just curious about modern math, while others attending did so, so they could help their children," he said.

The department head said, a questionnaire at the conclusion of the course showed "nearly 100 per cent wanted the program repeated next year, and 65 per cent of those attending said they would be interested in a modern math course if one were included in the systems adult education program."

Friday's TV Highlights

UP WITH PEOPLE is a sing-along musical special at 7:30 p.m. on Ch. 7, pre-empting "Green Hornet" this time only. Pat Boone is host and featured are the Colwell Brothers, Linda Blackmore, Green Glenn Singers, and a chorus of young singers.

CORTEZ AND THE LEGEND is an ABC special at 8 p.m. on Ch. 7, pre-empting "Time Tunnel." Kirk Douglas and John H. Secondari are narrators for the epic re-creating of the adventure of Hernando Cortez' conquest of Mexico in 1519. MAN FROM UNCLE at 8:30 p.m. on Chs. 2, 6, 11 and 12 repeats "The Yo-Ho-Ho and a Bottle of Rum Affair," with Dan O'Herlihy as guest star. Ilya stows away on a Thrush-hired ship that is transporting a tidal wave machine to a strategic Pacific island.

CBS FRIDAY NIGHT MOVIE at 9 p.m. on Chs. 4, 35, and 10 stars Rosalind Russell, Jack Hawkins, Maximilian Schell and Richard Beymer in "Five Finger Exercise." It concerns a frustrated, culture-conscious woman at odds with her self-made, semi-educated husband over the upbringing of their children, a situation complicated by the presence of a handsome German tutor.

NET PLAYHOUSE at 9:15 p.m. on Ch. 3 offers "The Old Glory; Benito Cereno," by Robert Lowell.

THE AMERICAN IMAGE at 10 p.m. on Chs. 2, 6, and 12 is a special NBC program showing America as seen through the eyes of its artists from Colonial days to the present. E. G. Marshall serves as on-camera host.

AMERICAN IMAGE

E. G. Marshall will be on-camera host of "The American Image," a one-hour NBC News color special to be presented on the NBC Television Network today (10-11 p.m.). The program will show America, as seen through the eyes of its artists, from Colonial days to the present. The noted actor is shown here during filming of part of the program in the Whitney Museum of American Art in New York.

Community Action Meet At Russell
A Community Action Meeting was held in the Russell Firehall, when Richard Brown, Director of the Forest-Warren County Council explained the possibilities of converting the old Russell School building into a low cost housing unit for the elderly.
He said an architect had looked at the building and said it was structurally sound and safe to be converted.
Mr. Wigan of the FHA was present and explained how a non profit corporation could procure money for a project, such as this at 3 per cent interest. He stated that possibly sixteen or twenty units could be made, each with 350 to 500 square feet per unit. He suggested that a board of twenty-five or more persons be appointed, with representatives from all organizations in the District, which is composed of Farmington, Elk and Pine Grove townships. This board to be incorporated and would become the governing body of the project.
The Supervisors were asked to petition the school board for a short term option, until the project could be thoroughly studied and see if it would be advisable to proceed with it.

Community Action Meet At Russell
A Community Action Meeting was held in the Russell Firehall, when Richard Brown, Director of the Forest-Warren County Council explained the possibilities of converting the old Russell School building into a low cost housing unit for the elderly.
He said an architect had looked at the building and said it was structurally sound and safe to be converted.
Mr. Wigan of the FHA was present and explained how a non profit corporation could procure money for a project, such as this at 3 per cent interest. He stated that possibly sixteen or twenty units could be made, each with 350 to 500 square feet per unit. He suggested that a board of twenty-five or more persons be appointed, with representatives from all organizations in the District, which is composed of Farmington, Elk and Pine Grove townships. This board to be incorporated and would become the governing body of the project.
The Supervisors were asked to petition the school board for a short term option, until the project could be thoroughly studied and see if it would be advisable to proceed with it.

ell Mahan.
Mrs. George Rapp was hostess to the Sunshine Club, with Mrs. Stanley Hitchcock assisting with the one o'clock luncheon. Twelve members, two guests and five children were present. Work was done on the quilt. It was decided to omit the June and July meetings and a picnic will be held in August. Mrs. William Wittenbrook and Mrs. Harry Light as committee to make arrangements.
The Lander Birthday Club met at the home of Mrs. Roy Lindell with ten members and three guests, Mrs. Pearl Brown, Mrs. Perry Swanson and Mrs. Anna Eckman and several children present. Mrs. Charles Swanson was honor guest for the day and was presented a gift from the group. For the June meeting they will go to Erie for a smorgasbord.
Mrs. Ruth Swanson spent a week with Mr. and Mrs. Galen Rapp at Jamestown. Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Bergstrom and family were called to Oseola Mills due to the death of Mrs. Bergstrom's father.
The VFD Auxiliary met Wednesday evening at the firehall with Mrs. Stewart Falconer presiding. Plans were made for a rummage sale to be held in the Russell Fire Hall May 25, 26, and 27. Anyone having rummage to be picked up call Mrs. Lloyd Ferry or Mrs. William Schumann. Plans were also discussed for serving the Warren County Firemen's meeting.
The next meeting will be held June 7.
